Believe Declaration Of Independence Draft Copy Found

BOSTON (AP) — Two fragile yellow pages bearing the first half of the Declaration of Independence have turned up in a Boston attic, and the minister who found them thinks they're straight from the quill pen of Thomas Jefferson.

The National Archives isn't ready, just yet, to agree that the Rev. James K. Allen has found the long-lost original, but an expert there says he's fascinated.

And the Rev. Mr. Allen, of the First Parish Church of Dorchester, says, "I've settled in my own mind what it is."

The minister said the document was among a pile of 1850-vintage papers given him Oct. 8 by a friend, George Berg, 78, who knew the minister's interest in history.

"He told me, 'We cleaned out a lot of attics in Dorchester. This was in one of them,'" said the Rev. Mr. Allen.

"There was a June 11, 1853, newspaper," he said, "and when I turned it over, this was under it. I almost jumped over the car, and I said, 'George, you really have got something here.'"

"We are fascinated by the potential of what he's found," said Robert MacClaren, chief chemist of the National Archives. MacClaren is one of several experts who have examined the 14-by-22-inch pages.

But he said it will take much work to determine whether the document is authentic.

"You have to find out the origin of the fibers of the document, and if you find out they came from Holland at the time that Jefferson would have used the paper — that's a plus. If you find that the inks were comparable and available for use by Jefferson — that's a plus," said MacClaren.

The original four-page Declaration of Independence, fashioned by Jefferson with help from Roger Sherman and John F. Livingston, was approved, after some revisions, by the Continental Congress in Philadelphia on the evening of July 4, 1776.

John Dunlap, a printer, worked through the night of July 4-5 and turned out 1,000 broadsides for rapid distribution through the colonies, but the original from which he worked was lost.

The Rev. Mr. Allen says there's ample evidence that his document is the original.

"For one thing, it shows that Jefferson wrote 'inalienable' but the printer made it 'unalienable.'

"For another thing, this second page includes three lines that were dropped by the printer from the original broadside, but were later put back in.

"And the fold shows it was used by a printer. My father owned a country newspaper, and nobody else folds a paper along the line of the letters but a printer putting up hand type. That's a printer's fold."

MacClaren said a tiny bit of the paper will probably be enough to analyze chemically, while an electron microscope could be used to test the ink.

Moves May Be Trimmed From Estimates

Carter Eyes Tax Data

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is calling his cabinet into private session at this secluded island retreat to exchange views on an economic stimulation program that he hints might be less expensive than originally anticipated.

The program is expected to include a combination of tax cuts and government job programs. Carter said after a meeting with his economic advisers on Monday that he will make a final decision on the tax cut portion of the plan "within the next 10 days."

As a prelude to today's first working session with those nominated to cabinet posts, Carter conferred for nearly four hours here Monday with his key economic advisers. Aides said the session was being held to consider "alternative approaches to job creation, tax reduction and reductions in government waste."

Today's cabinet session was to follow an early meeting with Gov. Hugh Carey of New York and Mayor Abraham Beame of New York City, for discussion of financial difficulties of the nation's largest city.

Earlier, on arriving at this rented island estate from his home in Plains, Ga., Carter said the latest economic indicators had left him "fairly well encouraged" compared to a few weeks ago.

And he reiterated that after Monday's discussion, saying in a statement that he and his advisers also "focused on current economic trends, which seemed slightly more positive than we had earlier expected."

Previously, Carter voiced concern that the economy was worse than he had thought during his campaign for the White House.

His two upbeat pronouncements about the economy, coupled with a reference to attacking waste, could be interpreted as indicating Carter hopes to present an economic package to the 1977 Congress that would add less money than expected to the federal budget deficit.

In his Monday night statement, Carter said that "although no final decisions were made, I believe significant progress was made toward an economic package constituting a balanced attack on both unemployment and inflation."

He indicated that the plan he and his cabinet will finally agree on will include both public works jobs to cut unemployment and tax cuts to stimulate the economy. His advisers in past weeks have indicated the project would cost some $15 billion to $20 billion.

On another subject, Carter was asked on arrival here Monday about the likelihood of a 1977 meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev. Carter responded that he thought this "a likely prospect for 1977, although we have not made any plans for it."

Responding to another question, Carter said his briefings by the CIA indicate "fairly substantial" increases in Soviet arms production, but "we are still far stronger than they are," by most measures.

Carter, wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy are staying here at Musgrove Plantation, a secluded retreat on 2,000 acres owned by W. Smith Bagley of Washington, an heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune.

Red Missile Silos Said In Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A top Thai foreign policy expert says intelligence reports show that the Soviet Union has built missile silos in the "high mountain area" of Laos. He says the silos could be used to direct missiles against either China or Thailand.

Thanat Khoman gave few details in his television talk Monday, and he did not indicate if any missiles had been installed in the silos. He cited "some intelligence reports" as also showing that the Soviets have "many military facilities in the highlands of Laos."

Thanat is a former foreign minister and head of the Thai national assembly's foreign relations committee.

Pentagon and State Department spokesmen in Washington said they knew nothing about any Soviet missile silos in Laos. They said they would have no comment.

Rumors about Soviet missile facilities in Laos have circulated in Bangkok since last December, when Communists took over the landlocked Indochinese country that borders both China and Thailand.

The rumors have been impossible to confirm. Some Western analysts here have been skeptical, saying that large-scale Soviet military involvement in Laos could lead to a confrontation with China.

"Laos is the strategic point which could control Southeast Asia," Thanat said Monday. He noted that the Soviet Union and Vietnam have become heavily involved in the development of Laos, that the United States has been pulling back its Asian military line to The Philippines, Japan and the Pacific islands, and that China has been more concerned about its volatile northern frontier with the Soviet Union than with its southern flank.

Moscow has been pouring aid and advisers into Laos since last December, and Laotian Premier Kaysone Phomvihan has met with Soviet leaders in Moscow twice this year. Estimates of Soviet personnel in Laos range from several hundred to several thousand.

Vietnam, which has close ties with the Soviet Union, maintains troops in the southern part of Laos.

Crime Payment Applications Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Applications by victims of crime for financial reparations from the state are expected to begin trickling in today, under a new crime compensation law.

The legislation authorizes payment by the state of up to $50,000 in compensation for economic loss suffered by persons injured or killed by criminals or those who attempt to prevent a criminal act.

However, state officials stress that there are some major exclusions.

Property losses are not covered, nor are pain, suffering or inconvenience, unless related to economic loss. The law will not compensate Ohioans who are victims of crimes commited by motorists, unless the injury is caused by a fleeing felon.

It will permit awards for medical bills of those injured physically, survivors benefits, funeral bills, loss of wages, rehabilitation therapy and prosthetic devices.

Deductions from state benefits will be made for payments victims receive from their own insurance, workmen's compensation or other third party plans.

After applications are processed the Court of Claims here, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's investigative unit will have 60 days to scrutinize the reports to determine their validity, before sending them on with recommendations to three claims commissioners.

Although claims for compensation may be made retroactively to Jan. 3, 1976, the one year statute of limitations in the law suggests claims for incidents dating that far back must be made by next Jan. 3.

"Our advice to those people is to take their applications to their county court house and get them marked 'received,'" a spokesman for Brown said.

Charles Crowley, the clerk of the Court of Claims who will help administer the program, said about 55 applications were mailed out last week in response to individual requests. Applications form have also been sent to county common pleas courts.

Crowley said he expected a few completed applications would be filed today with the court here. The enactment set Dec. 28 as the first day for applications to be filed.

To fund the program, the state will add a $3 assessment to fines for moving traffic violations, and—the wording of the law indicates—to all other criminal offenses in which fines are levied. This should provide $3 million to $5 million a year, an attorney general's spokesman estimates, and cover 2,500 claims.

The Court of Claims commissioners, expected to be named shortly by the Ohio Supreme Court, will likely establish precedents in some unclear sections of the law in early rulings on applications for compensation.

Applications, spelling out who is eligible, will be available through the state Court of Claims and at common pleas courts across the state.

Persons desiring more information about the Victims of Crime Compensation Law should contact Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Dountz, 474-3018.

The Deputy has been studying aspects of the new law, and has informative pamphlets which define compensatory crimes and explain filing procedure.

Kiser Appointed As U.S. Attorney

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard Kiser has been appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of U.S. Atty. John Wilks. He will be sworn in Jan. 3 and will serve on an interim basis until President-elect Jimmy Carter makes an official appointment.

Daley Successor Named In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The battle to succeed Mayor Richard J. Daley apparently has been won by one of his neighbors, a quiet alderman with considerable clout at City Hall who says Daley coaxed him into politics.

Michael A. Bilandic, the alderman from Daley's 11th Ward, was the favorite as the City Council met today to vote for temporary mayor.

"He's going to get it one way or the other," said Alderman Vito Marzullo, a major machine power broker.

Bilandic appeared to have enough votes among the 50 aldermen who make up the council to turn back any bid by Wilson Frost, the City Council president pro tempore.

Frost said Monday night that "I am trying to get the votes" to challenge Bilandic, but Bilandic's backers said Frost had agreed not to run for temporary mayor in return for the chairmanship of the powerful City Council Finance Committee.

A coalition of blacks, including community newspaper publisher Gus Savage and the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity) had backed Frost's mayoral bid.

"One thing is certain," said Marzullo, 77, "we're not going to let no outside rabble rousers run the City Council."

Daley died Dec. 20 of a heart attack after 21 years in office, setting off the power scramble. The aldermen must name one of their number as temporary mayor until a special election is set up within six months.

Bilandic has pledged not to run in the special election.

A quiet neighbor of the Daley family, Bilandic has said he entered the council only at the late mayor's coaxing and would like to return to his law business as soon as the temporary mayor term expires.

Another vacancy created by Daley's death, Cook County Democratic chairman, is to be decided Wednesday by the county's central committee, and the winner could figure in the special mayoral election.

The race is between Cook County Board President George W. Dunne and Gen. Supt. Edmund Kelly of the Chicago Park District. Dunne, campaigning for the chairmanship Monday night, hinted that he could be a candidate for mayor and added that he sees no problem in the "proper person" holding both jobs.

It had been generally agreed among Democrats that no man after Daley would have both posts.

Chinese Civil War Averted

TOKYO (AP) — Communist party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng says that if the radicals led by Mao Tse-tung's widow had not been suppressed there would have been "a major civil war" and foreign aggression in China, the official news agency Hsinhua reported today.

Hua told a Christmas Day session of the National Agricultural Conference that 1977 would see the total destruction of the radicals and the restoration of order, Hsinhua said in a broadcast monitored here.

The 56-year-old Chinese leader also said there would be a party cleanup next year because Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, and her supporters recruited new party members in violation of the party constitution, improperly promoted cadres and put "bad elements" into top party positions.

Hua branded the "gang of four" — Chiang Ching and Politburo members Wang Hungwen, Yao Wen-yuan and Chang Chun-chiao — as enemies of the people.

But the chairman said those who supported the radicals "must be treated on the merit of each case" and would be "welcome once they make a clean breast of their part in the conspiracy before the party and the people."

Hua said there must be a climate in China which allows minority criticism.

He said provincial and municipal people's congresses would be held next year. Hua said nothing about a national people's congress session, but one would presumably follow the lower level meetings.

Hsinhua first reported excerpts from Hua's speech Monday and followed today with a broadcast in great detail.

Hua disclosed that besides suffering devastating earthquakes, China had been stricken in 1976 by drought in some areas, too much rain in others, early frost "and other adversities," Hsinhua said.

The July quake in northeast China "inflicted a loss of lives and property that is rarely seen in history," he said, but he did not give any figures. Some unofficial reports from outside observers have said casualties may have been in the tens of thousands.

It was in these trying times, Hua said, that the radicals tried to usurp party and state leadership.

"Should their scheme have succeeded," he said, "that would have led to a great retrogression and split in our party and country and touched off a major civil war. They would have directly capitulated to (U.S.) imperialism and (Soviet) social-imperialism, relying on the aggressor's bayonet to prop up their throne and there would have been both internal strife and foreign aggression."

Referring to the arrest on charges of treason of the four radicals in October, he said "the issue was settled without firing a single shot or shedding a drop of blood."

Weather

Windy and colder with a chance of snow flurries today, tonight and Wednesday. High today in the low 30s, a low tonight between five and 10 degrees with a high Wednesday near 20. Chances of precipitation 30 per cent today and tonight and 40 per cent Wednesday. Monday's high was 29 with a low during the night of 28.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pressed ahead today, making its first bid in three months to reach the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The closely watched average of 30 blue chips climbed a point to about 997 in the early going.

Gainers took a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active.

Brokers said the uptrend reflected hopes for an extended yearend rally and the belief that the economy was beginning to perk up again after a sluggish showing in recent months.

IBM, which led the market ahead on Monday with a 5⅞point gain, rose another 1¼ to 278¾ in early trading today.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average jumped 10.47 to a three-month high of 996.09.

Gainers outpaced losers by better than a 5-2 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index rose .62 to 57.11.

Big Board volume totalled 20.13 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index jumped 1.31 to 107.21.

Ford Has No Plans For Blanket Amnesty

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford says he does not really plan to reconsider granting blanket amnesty to Vietnam-era draft evaders and deserters, even though he promised the widow of Michigan Sen. Philip Hart he would look into the possibility.

The issue was raised by Jane Hart when Ford made a condolence telephone call to her after the death of her husband. Hart, often known as "the conscience of the Senate" and a leader of the chamber's liberal forces, died Sunday of cancer. He was 64.

"I called to offer my condolences," Ford said Monday. "I said was there anything I could do and she said she wanted to ask if I would extend amnesty across the board and I said I'd look into it," Ford told reporters as he started out for a day of skiing.

Mrs. Hart was strongly against the Vietnam war and was arrested during a pray-in protest at the Pentagon. For a time she refused to pay taxes as part of her protest.

She said Monday that when Ford asked her if there was anything he could do she asked the favor on behalf of "Vietnam protesters, deserters and draft dodgers" because it was "the last thing Phil, in his last weeks, wished he could have gotten through."

But after her request became known, Ford was asked by a reporter if he was serious about reconsidering the amnesty question. Ford replied: "Oh, no. I just said at the request of her (Mrs. Hart) that I would look into it."

"You were just being polite then?" Ford was asked.

"The words speak for themselves," the President answered.

Ford always has opposed any blanket amnesty, and he indicated that his opinion is unchanged.

Despite Ford's statement that he would not consider the question, aides who are with Ford on the holiday skiing vacation here said a review of the amnesty issue will be made anyway before Ford leaves office Jan. 20.

They said several individuals had asked for such a review, but that Ford is not likely to change his previously stated stand: "No blanket pardon, no blanket amnesty, no blanket clemency."

Ford could just leave office on Jan. 20 without making any statement on the amnesty question. But one aide indicated that because the question was raised publicly by Mrs. Hart, Ford probably will make public his final decision after the review of the amnesty issue.

President-elect Carter has promised he will issue a blanket pardon during the first week of his presidency to all draft resisters, but would only consider such action for deserters on a case-by-case basis.

Shortly after taking office in 1974, Ford set up a program to grant selective pardons. They were granted either outright or in return for alternative service to about 14,000 deserters and resisters, denied to about 7,000 others. Another 92,000 who were considered eligible did not apply.

3rd Woman Said Ohio Man's Widow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another woman has joined the ranks of those claiming to be wives of Joseph Gordon Sharp, a salesman who traveled from family to family in his small plane.

Ohio authorities said a third Mrs. Sharp, who they identified as Wendy, lives in a Montreal suburb. She married Sharp last summer and is the latest in a line of wives going back to 1944, they said.

Sharp, who was killed in a plane crash in Indiana Dec. 10, was also married to a hospital technician in Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., and a woman from Gahanna, Ohio.

Records show Sharp had been married four times before exchanging vows with the latest trio. Several of the marriages apparently overlapped, according to records. Ohio authorities said Sharp also was planning to marry a widow who lives with her six children in a Chicago suburb.

James Louis, assistant Franklin County, Ohio, prosecutor, said his office will interview the Chicago woman, along with all the women claiming to be Mrs. Sharp.

Louis said he is also investigating the dead man's finances to determine how Sharp could support his families.

He reportedly earned about $20,000 a year as a systems representative for Docutel Corp., a Dallas-based computer firm.

Police Probing Indy Homicide

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Police still are investigating the death of a Chicago man — 70-year-old Charles Lee — whose bound body was discovered in a van here. However, homicide investigator Harry Dunn said an autopsy failed to disclose what led to Lee's death.

The body was discovered by attendants in Methodist Hospital parking garage after the van was left unattended for nine days. Lee's hands and feet were bound and he had been gagged with a pair of gloves and a plastic cord, Dunn said.

Senior Reps Appointed By Commissioners

The Pickaway County Commissioners appointed representatives for the senior citizens center during their Monday afternoon meeting.

For a one-year period, Wanda Hamilton will be director of the center. She will be in charge of center activities and supporting services.

Vera Saunders was appointed program coordinator. Her job will include working with the commissioners and the Central Ohio Agency on Aging. She will also coordinate programs and handle finances of the center.

These positions are paid through county funds and federal senior citizens funds.

Commissioners Dick Tootle, Robert Liston and Donald Strous reviewed the CETA budget for 1977 with Greg Bigam and are planning similar sessions today. At this time, they will meet with James Kingsley to go over the prosecuting attorney's budget.

Shoemaker Again Heads Finances

Ohio House Speaker Vern Riffe announced the reappointment of State Representative Myrl Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) as chairman of the House Finance-Appropriations Committee.

The reappointment will be effective Jan. 3, when the 112th Ohio General Assembly convenes.

Shoemaker has been chairman of the finance panel for the past four years and has been a member of the committee for the past ten years. He is one of the most experienced of the Columbus lawmakers, having served in the General Assembly since 1959. Shoemaker represents the 88th House District, which encompasses Pickaway, Ross, and the eastern portion of Fayette Counties.

As chairman of the Finance-Appropriations Committee, Shoemaker will also automatically be a member of the State Controlling Board, a bi-partisan body which periodically reviews and amends state expenditures.

When the legislature convenes in January, the major task facing the Finance-Appropriations Committee will be the formulation of a two-year budget for all state governmental operations. The present state budget expires June 30, 1977.

According to Shoemaker, the Finance-Appropriations Committee will closely monitor the state's economic situation in order to assess the amount of revenues available for state governmental operations. Also, Shoemaker stressed that the committee will explore the possible ways to bolster state aid for education.

Tanker Grounding Testimony Heard

NEW YORK (AP) — Far off course and sailing without its gyrocompass, the Argo Merchant ran aground while the captain and three of his top officers were on the bridge, according to court testimony.

Capt. George Papadopoulos testified Monday in U.S. District Court in Manhattan that the Liberian tanker was 24.5 miles off course when she foundered on shoals, eventually split in two and spilled 7.5 million gallons of heavy oil into the sea.

A skipper for nine years, the 43-year-old Papadopoulous said the ship's gyrocompass was not working when the accident occurred and the ship was being steered by a less reliable magnetic compass.

Meanwhile, spills from two other Liberian tankers were being contained, and the explosion that wrecked another was blamed on a spark of unknown origin.

—At Marcus Hook, Pa., at least 134,000 gallons of oil spewed into the Delaware River Monday from the tanker Olympic Games, but a work crew had the slick surrounded with a 2,000-foot boom.

The tanker — which reportedly was carrying 17 million gallons of crude oil — had run aground during a docking maneuver at a refinery 15 miles downriver from Philadelphia.

—On the Thames River in Connecticut, the Coast Guard managed to contain 1,900 of the 2,000 gallons that spilled from the Oswego-Peace. But the remaining oil in the Thames had coated as many as 100 waterfowl, and globs of oil reached rocks along the eastern bank of the river.

The oil, used to fuel the ship itself, apparently leaked from a crack in the hull Friday as the ship unloaded 250,000 barrels of heating oil at Amerada Hess Co. yard near Groton.

—A Coast Guard board heard evidence Monday in Long Beach, Calif., that the explosion that destroyed the Sansinena and killed at least four crewmen was caused by a spark that ignited a cloud of gases from the ship's cargo tanks.

Rear Adm. James Moreau, chairman of the board, said, however, that the origin of the spark remains a mystery. The board is planning on-site inspection of the wreckage of the ship, which was destroyed Dec. 17.

In New York, Papadopoulous testified at the start of a hearing on the effort by Thebes Shipping Co. of Monrovia, Liberia, the owner of the Argo Merchant, to limit its liability in the face of several lawsuits.

Meanwhile, the giant oil spill from the wrecked tanker drifted in a twisted butterfly configuration off Nantucket Island, apparently held motionless by fickle winds.

"It's just kind of sitting out there now," Coast Guard spokesman Norman Deragon said of the 7.6-million-gallon oil slick about 30 miles off Nantucket.

OSP Head Seeks Safe Holiday

Colonel Adam G. Reiss, superintendent of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, seeks the cooperation of Ohio's motorists in making the 1976 New Year's season the safest on record.

"All available manpower will be patrolling Ohio's highways during the holiday season," Col. Reiss said. "Our main objective is to promote the smooth, uninterrupted flow of holiday traffic."

Col. Reiss emphasized that Troopers will be alert to assist the motorist in distress as well as to apprehend those who commit traffic offenses.

"The traditional drinking season is here with office parties and home celebrations in abundance," he said. "Violators of our traffic laws, especially those who are found to be driving under the influence of alcohol, will be arrested and prosecuted."

Further complicating the driving scene will be bad weather in various areas of Ohio, the Colonel said. Snow, ice, and sleet will make driving more hazardous than at warmer times of the year.

If an emergency should develop while out on the highway, Col. Reiss reminds CB-owners that the Highway Patrol monitors emergency channel 9 and officers will respond to calls for help.

"We ask that motorists obey the traffic laws and refrain from driving when under the influence of alcohol," Col. Reiss said. "In this way the new year can be ushered in under the happiest of circumstances."

Grants Awarded In Cancer Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University and the American Cancer Research Center and Hospital in Lakewood, Colo., have received separate grants from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration office to conduct chemical investigations of a marine antitumor substance.

Ohio State will receive $16,200 to be matched with $8,000 in other university funds for the work. The cancer hospital will get $25,000 to be matched by $67,000 in nonfederal funds.

Researchers are to purify and identify the substance in clam livers that acts against tumors in the animal.

Dr. A.C. Schmeer, director of the Colorado center progam on anticancer agents in the sea, will try to extract the substance. The crude extract will then be sent to Dr. Derek Horton at Ohio State's chemistry department, where it will be purified and identified.

Once the antitumor chemical is identified, an attempt will be made to synthesize it in the laboratory for further testing and study, Horton said.

Harrison FD Saves Truck

Quick and efficient work by the Harrison Twp. Fire Department saved a Scioto Haulers Inc. packer truck from destruction by fire.

Gary Bolin, 26, 77 Bolens Ave., told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies that he was driving in the area of Route 316 and Union St. in South Bloomfield, when a passing motorist told him his truck was on fire.

Heavy smoke and flames were seen in the rear of the packer truck, deputies said.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pressed ahead today, making its first bid in three months to reach the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The closely watched average of 30 blue chips climbed a point to about 997 in the early going.

Gainers took a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active.

Brokers said the uptrend reflected hopes for an extended yearend rally and the belief that the economy was beginning to perk up again after a sluggish showing in recent months.

IBM, which led the market ahead on Monday with a 5⅞point gain, rose another 1¼ to 278¾ in early trading today.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average jumped 10.47 to a three-month high of 996.09.

Gainers outpaced losers by better than a 5-2 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index rose .62 to 57.11.

Big Board volume totalled 20.13 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index jumped 1.31 to 107.21.

Another woman has joined the ranks of those claiming to be wives of Joseph Gordon Sharp, a salesman who traveled from family to family in his small plane.

Ohio authorities said a third Mrs. Sharp, who they identified as Wendy, lives in a Montreal suburb. She married Sharp last summer and is the latest in a line of wives going back to 1944, they said.

Sharp, who was killed in a plane crash in Indiana Dec. 10, was also married to a hospital technician in Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., and a woman from Gahanna, Ohio.

Records show Sharp had been married four times before exchanging vows with the latest trio. Several of the marriages apparently overlapped, according to records. Ohio authorities said Sharp also was planning to marry a widow who lives with her six children in a Chicago suburb.

James Louis, assistant Franklin County, Ohio, prosecutor, said his office will interview the Chicago woman, along with all the women claiming to be Mrs. Sharp.

Louis said he is also investigating the dead man's finances to determine how Sharp could support his families.

He reportedly earned about $20,000 a year as a systems representative for Docutel Corp., a Dallas-based computer firm.

Police Probing Indy Homicide

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Police still are investigating the death of a Chicago man — 70-year-old Charles Lee — whose bound body was discovered in a van here. However, homicide investigator Harry Dunn said an autopsy failed to disclose what led to Lee's death.

The body was discovered by attendants in Methodist Hospital parking garage after the van was left unattended for nine days. Lee's hands and feet were bound and he had been gagged with a pair of gloves and a plastic cord, Dunn said.

Senior Reps Appointed By Commissioners

The Pickaway County Commissioners appointed representatives for the senior citizens center during their Monday afternoon meeting.

For a one-year period, Wanda Hamilton will be director of the center. She will be in charge of center activities and supporting services.

Vera Saunders was appointed program coordinator. Her job will include working with the commissioners and the Central Ohio Agency on Aging. She will also coordinate programs and handle finances of the center.

These positions are paid through county funds and federal senior citizens funds.

Commissioners Dick Tootle, Robert Liston and Donald Strous reviewed the CETA budget for 1977 with Greg Bigam and are planning similar sessions today. At this time, they will meet with James Kingsley to go over the prosecuting attorney's budget.

Shoemaker Again Heads Finances

Ohio House Speaker Vern Riffe announced the reappointment of State Representative Myrl Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) as chairman of the House Finance-Appropriations Committee.

The reappointment will be effective Jan. 3, when the 112th Ohio General Assembly convenes.

Shoemaker has been chairman of the finance panel for the past four years and has been a member of the committee for the past ten years. He is one of the most experienced of the Columbus lawmakers, having served in the General Assembly since 1959. Shoemaker represents the 88th Ohio House District, which encompasses Pickaway, Ross, and the eastern portion of Fayette Counties.

As chairman of the Finance-Appropriations Committee, Shoemaker will also automatically be a member of the State Controlling Board, a bi-partisan body which periodically reviews and amends state expenditures.

When the legislature convenes in January, the major task facing the Finance-Appropriations Committee will be the formulation of a two-year budget for all state governmental operations. The present state budget expires June 30, 1977.

According to Shoemaker, the Finance-Appropriations Committee will closely monitor the state's economic situation in order to assess the amount of revenues available for state governmental operations. Also, Shoemaker stressed that the committee will explore the possible ways to bolster state aid for education.

Tanker Grounding Testimony Heard

NEW YORK (AP) — Far off course and sailing without its gyrocompass, the Argo Merchant ran aground while the captain and three of his top officers were on the bridge, according to court testimony.

Capt. George Papadopoulos testified Monday in U.S. District Court in Manhattan that the Liberian tanker was 24.5 miles off course when she foundered on shoals, eventually split in two and spilled 7.5 million gallons of heavy oil into the sea.

A skipper for nine years, the 43-year-old Papadopoulous said the ship's gyrocompass was not working when the accident occurred and the ship was being steered by a less reliable magnetic compass.

Meanwhile, spills from two other Liberian tankers were being contained, and the explosion that wrecked another was blamed on a spark of unknown origin.

—At Marcus Hook, Pa., at least 134,000 gallons of oil spewed into the Delaware River Monday from the tanker Olympic Games, but a work crew had the slick surrounded with a 2,000-foot boom.

The tanker — which reportedly was carrying 17 million gallons of crude oil — had run aground during a docking maneuver at a refinery 15 miles downriver from Philadelphia.

—On the Thames River in Connecticut, the Coast Guard managed to contain 1,900 of the 2,000 gallons that spilled from the Oswego-Peace. But the remaining oil in the Thames had coated as many as 100 waterfowl, and globs of oil reached rocks along the eastern bank of the river.

The oil, used to fuel the ship itself, apparently leaked from a crack in the hull Friday as the ship unloaded 250,000 barrels of heating oil at Amerada Hess Co. yard near Groton.

—A Coast Guard board heard evidence Monday in Long Beach, Calif., that the explosion that destroyed the Sansinena and killed at least four crewmen was caused by a spark that ignited a cloud of gases from the ship's cargo tanks.

Rear Adm. James Moreau, chairman of the board, said, however, that the origin of the spark remains a mystery. The board is planning on-site inspection of the wreckage of the ship, which was destroyed Dec. 17.

In New York, Papadopoulous testified at the start of a hearing on the effort by Thebes Shipping Co. of Monrovia, Liberia, the owner of the Argo Merchant, to limit its liability in the face of several lawsuits.

Meanwhile, the giant oil spill from the wrecked tanker drifted in a twisted butterfly configuration off Nantucket Island, apparently held motionless by fickle winds.

"It's just kind of sitting out there now," Coast Guard spokesman Norman Deragon said of the 7.6-million-gallon oil slick about 30 miles off Nantucket.

OSP Head Seeks Safe Holiday

Colonel Adam G. Reiss, superintendent of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, seeks the cooperation of Ohio's motorists in making the 1976 New Year's season the safest on record.

"All available manpower will be patrolling Ohio's highways during the holiday season," Col. Reiss said. "Our main objective is to promote the smooth, uninterrupted flow of holiday traffic."

Col. Reiss emphasized that Troopers will be alert to assist the motorist in distress as well as to apprehend those who commit traffic offenses.

"The traditional drinking season is here with office parties and home celebrations in abundance," he said. "Violators of our traffic laws, especially those who are found to be driving under the influence of alcohol, will be arrested and prosecuted."

Further complicating the driving scene will be bad weather in various areas of Ohio, the Colonel said. Snow, ice, and sleet will make driving more hazardous than at warmer times of the year.

If an emergency should develop while out on the highway, Col. Reiss reminds CB-owners that the Highway Patrol monitors emergency channel 9 and officers will respond to calls for help.

"We ask that motorists obey the traffic laws and refrain from driving when under the influence of alcohol," Col. Reiss said. "In this way the new year can be ushered in under the happiest of circumstances."

Grants Awarded In Cancer Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University and the American Cancer Research Center and Hospital in Lakewood, Colo., have received separate grants from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration office to conduct chemical investigations of a marine antitumor substance.

Ohio State will receive $16,200 to be matched with $8,000 in other university funds for the work. The cancer hospital will get $25,000 to be matched by $67,000 in nonfederal funds.

Researchers are to purify and identify the substance in clam livers that acts against tumors in the animal.

Dr. A.C. Schmeer, director of the Colorado center progam on anticancer agents in the sea, will try to extract the substance. The crude extract will then be sent to Dr. Derek Horton at Ohio State's chemistry department, where it will be purified and identified.

Once the antitumor chemical is identified, an attempt will be made to synthesize it in the laboratory for further testing and study, Horton said.

Harrison FD Saves Truck

Quick and efficient work by the Harrison Twp. Fire Department saved a Scioto Haulers Inc. packer truck from destruction by fire.

Gary Bolin, 26, 77 Bolens Ave., told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies that he was driving in the area of Route 316 and Union St. in South Bloomfield, when a passing motorist told him his truck was on fire.

Heavy smoke and flames were seen in the rear of the packer truck, deputies said.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Complains About Wide Rear View

DEAR ABBY: There ought to be a law prohibiting women who are under 5 feet 10 and weigh over 165 pounds from wearing tight pants.

From the rear they look like they're carrying around a couple of watermelons. It wouldn't be so bad if they stuck to dark colors, but these klutzes always wear shocking pink or bright orange. And the pants are usually made of a stretch material, which is stretched to the point of straining the seams.

Please Abby, use your influences to get some legislation going to outlaw such unsightly sights. They mar the beauty of our streets and shopping centers.

DISGUSTED IN BOSTON

DEAR DISGUSTED: The law you suggest would be as hard to pass as would another making it a misdemeanor to watch such "klutzes." Sorry, but there's no law that says you have to look.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who loves both her parents tremendously. Every night I make my Dad a lunch for him to carry to work the next day. This evening I found a note in his lunch box that read: "Honey, meet me after work tonight. I love you. (Signed) Nora."

Abby, my Dad "worked" two hours late last night, so now I'm putting 2 and 2 together. I always thought my Mom and Dad had a good marriage, but I'm beginning to wonder. One thing I'm sure of: My Mom loves my Dad and trusts him.

Should I tell my Mom? I'm afraid she might leave him, and I don't want that. Please help me. I've got to tell somebody, and you're the only one I can trust.

THEIR OLDEST CHILD

DEAR CHILD: Don't tell your Mom. It's possible that somone played a joke on your father. (Or maybe someone was trying to get him into trouble.) Tell your Dad you found the note and give him a chance to explain.

DEAR ABBY: Once again you advised: "If you go, you owe." I write to disagree.

Forty years ago, an elderly man (whose age I am now) did a favor for me. When I promised to repay him, he said, "I GAVE that to you. If you repay me, that makes it a LOAN."

Since then, I've tried to live that creed. Now you tell my guests that I have merely "loaned" them my hospitality, and they must pay it back, thereby denying me the joy of giving. I protest.

LOU ROSEN: SANTA ROSA

DEAR LOU: Your protest is noted. But if someone accepted my hospitality repeatedly without reciprocating, I'd wonder why.

Guide Manual Set For Walking Paths

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Transportation will prepare a guidance manual next year for officials in Ohio communities to develop a "Recommended Walking Paths to School" program.

"It will be a manual for smaller cities to show how they can work with schools," says DOT Traffic Engineer Geno D'Ippolito. "They used to call them safe way to school programs."

D'Ippolito says the American Automobile Association and some other states have implemented such programs.

The State Controlling Board agreed last week to waive competitive bidding so DOT could hire a consultant for the state project. The $18,000 tab will be picked up by the federal government as part of an incentive award Ohio received for achieving a reduction in traffic deaths in the state.

D'Ippolito hopes to have the instructional booklet ready for the start of the 1977-78 school year.

To do the job, the transportation department will contract with Zoltan Nemeth, an Ohio State University professor who specializes in traffic problems.

Nemeth will first review other "safe way to school" programs and then look for ways to improve procedures and apply them to Ohio cities. The booklet will outline ways for determining where intersections should be marked with traffic control devices, as well as listing some "dos and don'ts," D'Ippolito says.

"We're trying to put it in simple laymen's terms and avoid technical jargon," he adds.

Transportation officials expect the manual to be used by local government officials and educators with the aim of developing a cooperative program geared for neighborhood schools, where a number of children walk from their homes.

"The city would know the streets and intersections and the school would know the routes," D'Ippolito says.

Earl Butz Says Ag Chief OK

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Earl Butz thinks that President-elect Carter did pretty well in his selection of Rep. Bob Bergland for Butz' old job as secretary of agriculture.

"If you must have a Democrat for secretary of agriculture, then he would be tops on my list," said Butz. "I found him very perceptive, knowledgeable, industrious, reasonable and courteous."

Butz has returned to his native Indiana, where he says he in preparing for his "mission" of trying to prevent more federal involvement in farming. He resigned as head of the Agriculture Department Oct. 4 after a controversy involving an offcolor racial remark that he admitted making.

Rate Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Blue Cross of Southwest Ohio has filed for a rate increase in Medicare Complementary contracts for the Lima area, the state insurance department announced Monday.

The increases range from $1.40 to $1.70 a month, Insurance Superintendent Harry V. Jump said.

"If approved, this will be the first increase in these contracts since 1966," Jump noted.

A public hearing on the rate application was set for Jan. 12 in Lima.

A Page Of Opinion

Vandals Unstopped

Sacking of Rome in the fifth century by the Vandals, a dominant Germanic tribe of the time, made more sense than the destruction being wrought by their 20th century namesakes.

The original Vandals were barbarian warriors who profited from the riches they carted away from the city. Today's vandals leave a wake of destruction, apparently profiting only from the release of boredom and animosity.

Recent studies of modern vandalism demonstrate that it's as much a vice of the middle class as the disadvantaged slum dweller, and that most of it is committed by the very young. The FBI reported in one recent year better than three-fourths of those arrested for vandalism were under 18, many of them 12 and 13.

In some areas where vandalism is widespread, counter-measures are giving a fortress-like air to schools that should be bright and cherry like most of the young within. Stepped-up police patrols, security guards on the premises, electronic detection devices and heavily screened windows are now part of the school scene in many localities.

Unwelcome as these steps are they are necessary, for nothing else seems to work. Since many vandals are not caught, laws that make parents responsible for the destructive acts of their minor children are only marginally effective.

The idea behind these laws remains a valid one: that parents are morally and legally obligated to control the behavior of their young.

Women Avoid Physicals

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — American women — more than men — tend to postpone annual medical checkups. Sometimes for years. Until serious physical problems have developed.

Women make excuses. The high cost of doctors and medical care is a prevalent one. The old "my husband and children come first" rationale.

But the real reason is even more basic than money. Women are afraid "the doctor will find something."

"And if there's anything there, I don't want to know it," they are quick to admit.

The greatest health concerns involve gynecological ailments:

Because such ailments, in many women's minds, involve malignancies. Fears of breast and uterine cancer are strong. Yet there is a large gap between concern and action.

"Most women interviewed," the study showed, "were well aware that the survival rate for uterine cancer is very high if the signs are detected early enough. Yet, few of them took Pap tests regularly — and some had never taken even one."

After cancer, the next dread in female minds is high blood pressure and resultant heart attacks. They didn't submit to regular electrocardiogram tests, however, because they have heard too many stories that seemed to refute the validity of EKGs.

"You get an okay, and you drop dead on the way home," is how one interviewed woman expressed her skepticism.

Blue Cross of Greater Philadelphia, which conducted the survey among women in all socio-economic and age groups, found that women who avoided doctor checkups usually compensated by taking vitamin and iron pills. Not what the doctor prescribed, but that their own instincts told them were proper dosages. They also rationalized that they could maintain their health through good nutrition. However, there seemed to be little agreement on how to achieve this good nutrition.

"For some," said researchers, "sound nutrition was merely avoiding certain foods."

Giving up French-fried potatoes and fudge sundaes does not, however, assure glowing health.

Women's basic concerns about cancer are a cause for alarm. (Their concern for the high cost of checkups is a cause for doctors to shape up and cut fees.)

At a Long Island Hospital recently, a conference was held — titled "Living With Cancer." The message that came through was clear: "It's time to bring cancer out of the closet. The disease is no longer a death sentence, and yet people still speak of it in whispers."

One physician reports, "As long as cancer scares hell out of people, they will resist being examined for fear of discovery. We've got a lot of work to do to change the public's attitude."

"Some people," said one doctor from the podium, "even think cancer is catching."

Appearing at the conference where physicians from Memorial-Sloan Kettering Hospital, one of the foremost cancer-specializing facilities in the world.

The following, hopefully somewhat encouraging, statistics were discussed:

There is now a 47 per cent remission rate in cancer — a figure none of the specialists would have dreamed achievable only 10 years ago.

In the 1950s, it was rare for a child to survive leukemia; the survival rate is now 50 per cent.

In the 1940s, only 24 per cent of Hodgkin's Disease patients survived. Now over half are kept in remission.

The improvements in recovery prospects are being noted across the board, in the case of malignant diseases. "It's a positive picture," said Dr. Arthur Sawitsky, director of cancer programs at Long Island Jewish-Hillside, "and we must all be involved in changing cultural attitudes."

When Betty Ford and Happy Rockefeller both submitted to surgery for breast cancer, there was a nationwide rush of American women to visit their doctors. The coincidental illness and courage of two famous women managed to give other females a kick in the psyche that overcame their fears of possibly learning an awesome discovery.

But, judging from the Blue Cross survey, the female population again has retired to the ostrich syndrome, heads buried in the warm sand of psychological self-protection.

At the "Living With Cancer" conference, doctors proposed an action program to force through new legislation protecting a cancer victim's right to work when he is in extended remission or apparently cured. The legislation would, additionally, call for mass education of the American public about the many diseases labelled as cancer — and about their controllability.

Until the media, and the government, become realistic about the new developments in the field, cancer will continue to be regarded not only as a dreaded physical disease but as a social malady. Incredible as it seems, recovered cancer patients who are capable of working have lost their jobs — and their employee health insurance — because they had cancer.

That is adding economic and psychological insult to physical injury.

Cancer is a subject riddled by the grossest kind of misinformation — and the result is a dangerous atmosphere of fear.

We've got to stop whispering about it, and speak up. In the dark of the closet where it's been hidden, cancer is a monster that cannot effectively be attacked.

Speaking Of Your Health

Why is it so difficult to find a vaccine against virus diseases?

Miss D. L., Iowa

Dear Miss L.:

The greatest difficulty that is encountered is that there are so many different viruses that produce infections in the human. Several hundred different viruses are known to exist. There are probably hundreds more that have not yet been uncovered.

These are some of the diseases that are caused by viruses: Influenza, mumps, polio, hepatitis, chicken pox, measles, German measles, herpes, rabies, infectious mononucleosis and the common cold.

Some viruses are spread to man from animals. Most of the others are transmitted from man to man, especially those that involve the respiratory and the intestinal tracts.

Scientists all over the world are constantly at work tracking down viruses and their variations, in the attempt to create vaccines that will totally obliterate the disease they create.

The effective vaccines that have been created for smallpox, measles, mumps, German measles, yellow fever, polio and influenza have given scientists great encouragement in the production of vaccines for almost every other virus that threatens man.

Time, money and the training of scientists and research workers will guarantee the creation of more and more remarkable life-saving vaccines.

Despite these great accomplishments it should be noted that thousands of children are not given the benefit of such protection, because of neglect or sheer indifference.

Every few weeks I develop an infection of the covering of my eye. The doctor calls it "conjunctivitis." Is there any way this can be eliminated, once and for all?

Mr. H. W. H. miss.

Dear Mr. H.:

The conjunctiva is a very delicate membrance that covers the eye. All cases of so-called "repeated infections" of the conjunctiva are studies for the possibility of an underlying allergic condition.

Swelling, redness, itching and marked tearing of the eye are some of the symptoms. It is essential, after a complete eye examination, that bacterial cultures and smears be made in order to establish the correct diagnosis.

I recall a patient who had recurring infections in the eye. These were finally traced to the patient's eye drops, which were contaminated by his own germs. Every time he used the drops he would reinfect himself. It is wise, after each infection, to discard both the medicine and the eye dropper.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

Words cannot express my appreciation for all the help we received from individuals, organizations, and businesses in our recent project for our shutins and clients. Tuesday, December 14 was a most wonderful day for me. I am quite sure 130 people shared my enthusiasm. The Friendly Visitors of the Senior Center sponsored a Christmas dinner and party for our shutins and clients. After other individuals, organizations, and businesses heard of our project the response was very gratifying. We received food for the dinner, and the Friendly Visitors and other volunteers prepared and served it. We received many items as gifts and money to purchase whatever else was needed. These items were personally selected and each person on our list received something he or she could use and would like.

What started as a project for a group of wonderful volunteer ladies turned out to be a project of the whole community. This spirit of giving came from individuals, young and old, organizations, churches, and businesses. Beautiful gifts that will always be cherished by our shutins and clients. Some were crocheted, knitted or pieced to make multicolored lap robes and even comforters. Useful gifts of clothing; gloves, scarves, socks, etc. were given. Colorful items of jewelry, powders, and colognes were blended with the useful gifts to make the gift delightful.

As part of our project the Friendly Visitors visited Pickaway Manor on December 17 and distributed gifts for all the patients. On Monday, December 20 we visited Brown Memorial and Tuesday, December 21, we visited Circleville Manor. Santa Claus made all these visits with us and did his share of spreading Christmas Cheer. The nursing home patients had a chance to give their preference and from our wide variety of gifts we were able to provide their wishes.

In some instances one of our Friendly Visitors would make a personal item if we didn't have it available. One particular instance we needed a special item for a very special nursing home patient and Circleville Herald, came to our rescue. We selected and wrapped 368 gifts for all our shutins, clients and nursing home patients. Each of these gifts was selected with the object of making the recipient happy.

How can we find the words to express our appreciation for all the thoughtful, kind acts performed to help make our project a success? We want to thank all the businesses for their help.

Besides the businesses and organizations contributions we had nearly 200 individuals giving their time, their money or their talents to help make this Christmas a time of sharing. I can't possibly name each person who contributed to our project but please know I appreciate each act of kindness and thoughtfulness from each one.

I want to thank Santa Claus for making himself available each time we needed him. His services were available simply because of his generosity to mankind. Although he is a jolly old fellow he does get a little tired this time of year. Santa asked me to thank all of his suppliers, helpers and elves who helped him in this project. He said it would be a little difficult for him to do everything without the help of others.

The Friendly Visitors and many other Senior Citizen Volunteers spent many hours wrapping, crocheting, knitting, cutting, etc. to make bell corsages and name tags for the party. Also, they cooked, baked, made decorations etc. to make the project a success. Rosie Davis corcheted 120 flowers and Sue Spires gave bud vases so the party goers would have gorgeous favors to take home. Thanks to all of these dedicated persons.

Thanks to the Senior Center staff members who pitched in and helped any place they were needed. One baked all the rolls for the party and others cooked, baked, crocheted, wrapped and provided money and transportation when it was needed.

Our entertainers for the day of the party were the AAUW singers, Rev. Ronald Brant, Gladden Troutman, and pianist, Ray Beery. Thanks to all of them. Our very special guest, Sister Rose Thomas from Mt. Carmel Hospital, must also accept our thanks.

So many persons cooperated in this project I wouldn't possibly name each one but I appreciate all of them. May God bless all of you!

Yours sincerely
WANDA HAMILTON

Dear Editor:

This is in reply to Mr. Rex Schirm's letter on December 22 concerning the local option election for the sale of alcoholic beverages in Pickaway Twp. and the issuing of an injunction to prevent the taking of permits until the election can be cleared on the clouds surrounding its results.

Mr. Schirm feels the issuing of an injunction is an insult to voter intelligence, a smear on voter integrity, and an intrusion upon his right to vote, when the very opposite is true. That is, the injunction was issued to prevent the above from being a possible reality. An election is only as valid as the procedures followed in bringing about its results. When serious questions are raised as to the violations or voting procedures, as innumerated by this newspaper and other news media, it is the duty and privilage under our democratic form of government for citizens to contest the results of such election.

Through this procedure, not only is our right to vote protected, but more importantly, our right to have issues fairly and unbiasedly presented so as to be able to vote more intelligently is protected.

Long Given Life Terms

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Neal Bradley Long, convicted murderer of school desegregation expert Dr. Charles Glatt, was sentenced to two consecutive life imprisonment terms today by U.S. District Court Judge Robert J. DeMascio.

Long showed no emotion during the 30-minute sentencing.

He was convicted on two federal charges: murder of a federal official and interfering with the civil rights of Dayton school students. Long pleaded guilty to both charges.

Glatt, a 48-year-old Ohio State University professor, was shot to death on Sept. 19, 1976 as he worked on the Dayton school desegregation plan.

Early next month, Long is to be turned over to Montgomery County officials to be arraigned in seven sniper shootings in Dayton, in which three persons were killed, during the summers of the early 1970s.

China Farms In Trouble

TOKYO (AP) — Trouble on Chinese farms was reported today by China's official news agency.

Agriculture has been hampered by "the capitalist tendency of abandoning farming to engage in commerce," Hsinhua said.

It said another problem has been members of rural communes immediately dividing up and consuming all their income rather than setting some aside for the future. It indicated farmers were ignoring the state plan.

Hsinhua said work teams with a total of 1.6 million Communist party officials have been sent to the countryside in the last year to join local officials and peasants in studying Communist theory and criticizing these tendencies.

In 1764 Col. Henry Bouquet and 1,500 armed men entered Ohio to recover white captives from the Indians, and 206 such captives were released near Coshocton. —AP

A Page Of Opinion

Vandals Unstopped

Sacking of Rome in the fifth century by the Vandals, a dominant Germanic tribe of the time, made more sense than the destruction being wrought by their 20th century namesakes.

The original Vandals were barbarian warriors who profited from the riches they carted away from the city. Today's vandals leave a wake of destruction, apparently profiting only from the release of boredom and animosity.

Recent studies of modern vandalism demonstrate that it's as much a vice of the middle class as the disadvantaged slum dweller, and that most of it is committed by the very young. The FBI reported in one recent year better than three-fourths of those arrested for vandalism were under 18, many of them 12 and 13.

In some areas where vandalism is widespread, counter-measures are giving a fortress-like air to schools that should be bright and cherry like most of the young within. Stepped-up police patrols, security guards on the premises, electronic detection devices and heavily screened windows are now part of the school scene in many localities.

Unwelcome as these steps are they are necessary, for nothing else seems to work. Since many vandals are not caught, laws that make parents responsible for the destructive acts of their minor children are only marginally effective.

The idea behind these laws remains a valid one: that parents are morally and legally obligated to control the behavior of their young.

Women Avoid Physicals

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — American women — more than men — tend to postpone annual medical checkups. Sometimes for years. Until serious physical problems have developed.

Women make excuses. The high cost of doctors and medical care is a prevalent one. The old "my husband and children come first" rationale.

But the real reason is even more basic than money. Women are afraid "the doctor will find something."

"And if there's anything there, I don't want to know it," they are quick to admit.

The greatest health concerns involve gynecological ailments:

Because such ailments, in many women's minds, involve malignancies. Fears of breast and uterine cancer are strong. Yet there is a large gap between concern and action.

"Most women interviewed," the study showed, "were well aware that the survival rate for uterine cancer is very high if the signs are detected early enough. Yet, few of them took Pap tests regularly — and some had never taken even one."

The Friendly Visitors and many other Senior Citizen Volunteers spent many hours wrapping, crocheting, knitting, cutting, etc. to make bell corsages and name tags for the party. Also, they cooked, baked, made decorations etc. to make the project a success. Rosie Davis corcheted 120 flowers and Sue Spires gave bud vases so the party goers would have gorgeous favors to take home. Thanks to all of these dedicated persons.

Thanks to the Senior Center staff members who pitched in and helped any place they were needed. One baked all the rolls for the party and others cooked, baked, crocheted, wrapped and provided money and transportation when it was needed.

Our entertainers for the day of the party were the AAUW singers, Rev. Ronald Brant, Gladden Troutman, and pianist, Ray Beery. Thanks to all of them. Our very special guest, Sister Rose Thomas from Mt. Carmel Hospital, must also accept our thanks.

So many persons cooperated in this project I wouldn't possibly name each one but I appreciate all of them. May God bless all of you!

Yours sincerely
WANDA HAMILTON

Dear Editor:

This is in reply to Mr. Rex Schirm's letter on December 22 concerning the local option election for the sale of alcoholic beverages in Pickaway Twp. and the issuing of an injunction to prevent the taking of permits until the election can be cleared on the clouds surrounding its results.

Mr. Schirm feels the issuing of an injunction is an insult to voter intelligence, a smear on voter integrity, and an intrusion upon his right to vote, when the very opposite is true. That is, the injunction was issued to prevent the above from being a possible reality. An election is only as valid as the procedures followed in bringing about its results. When serious questions are raised as to the violations or voting procedures, as innumerated by this newspaper and other news media, it is the duty and privilage under our democratic form of government for citizens to contest the results of such election.

Through this procedure, not only is our right to vote protected, but more importantly, our right to have issues fairly and unbiasedly presented so as to be able to vote more intelligently is protected.

Long Given Life Terms

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Neal Bradley Long, convicted murderer of school desegregation expert Dr. Charles Glatt, was sentenced to two consecutive life imprisonment terms today by U.S. District Court Judge Robert J. DeMascio.

Long showed no emotion during the 30-minute sentencing.

He was convicted on two federal charges: murder of a federal official and interfering with the civil rights of Dayton school students. Long pleaded guilty to both charges.

Glatt, a 48-year-old Ohio State University professor, was shot to death on Sept. 19, 1976 as he worked on the Dayton school desegregation plan.

Early next month, Long is to be turned over to Montgomery County officials to be arraigned in seven sniper shootings in Dayton, in which three persons were killed, during the summers of the early 1970s.

China Farms In Trouble

TOKYO (AP) — Trouble on Chinese farms was reported today by China's official news agency.

Agriculture has been hampered by "the capitalist tendency of abandoning farming to engage in commerce," Hsinhua said.

It said another problem has been members of rural communes immediately dividing up and consuming all their income rather than setting some aside for the future. It indicated farmers were ignoring the state plan.

Hsinhua said work teams with a total of 1.6 million Communist party officials have been sent to the countryside in the last year to join local officials and peasants in studying Communist theory and criticizing these tendencies.

MEDICAL SOCIETY OFFICERS — At a recent meeting of the Pickaway County Medical Society, new officers were elected to serve during the year 1977. Dr. Carlos Alvarez was elected to the office of the Presidency. Dr. Frank Moore was elected Vice-President and Dr. F. W. Anderson was re-elected as Secretary-Treasurer. Delegates to the Ohio State Medical Association are Dr. Robert G. Smith and Dr. Ray Carroll. Dr. Alvarez, 147 Pinckney St., incoming president, is a member of the Staff of Berger Hospital, a member of the Ohio State Medical Association, the American Medical Association, the American College of Surgeons, the International College of Surgeons and the American Board of Surgery. The Pickaway County Medical Society meets monthly except during the months of July and August.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With investors wary and portfolio managers lacking in confidence, and with the government telling pension fund managers to be prudent, the indexing concept came into being within the past two years.

It stressed safety. If a manager of funds invested the money in all the stocks in the Standard & Poor's 500 Index it would mean, quite automatically, that a performance no worse than the index was guaranteed.

While you could never exceed the index either, the new concept drew supporters from all over. It had to do with the times: Investors and managers were settling for less; some thought it futile to try to beat the market.

Adding to the play-safe mood was word from the legal advisers to portfolio managers. Diversify, they said, and thus reduce risk and keep within the spirit of the new pension law, which insisted that pension managers use prudence in selecting stocks.

But the appeal of every new stock market idea tends to fade, and sometimes it loses its foundation in logic too. We are now a bit more confident; we recognize, among other things, that less risk means fewer profits. And so, risk is in again.

Woodward Kingman, executive vice president of Crocker National Bank, recently expressed the new attitude. "After considerable study," he said, "we have come to side with those who look upon the index funds as the ultimate 'cop-out' by professional money managers."

Kingman, who is in charge of trust, investment and fiduciary services at the big San Francisco bank, told a meeting of employe benefit plan officials that, in his view, indexing was the peddling of mediocrity.

"Any industry includes people who excel and those who don't. Ours is no different. Some managers can fairly consistently out-perform the index," he said, concluding: "It is the responsibility of fiduciaries to use these managers."

For its portfolios, Crocker has taken the approach that it is both prudent and profitable to actively manage funds — to exercise judgment, to assume the risks, to seek a better-than-average return.

Having discarded whatever notions it might have had about settling for mediocrity, Crocker's reasons must be interesting and potentially profitable.

First off, it expects the earnings per share of the S&P 500 Index will more than double to $20 a share in 1983.

While that date is seven years away, it is a long time since relatively conservative institutions were willing to project a doubling of profits. And a long time too since anyone risked a look seven years into the future.

EPA Rule Kills Ohio Charcoal Industry

OAK HILL, Ohio (AP) — Orders issued by the state Environmental Protection Agency are about to spell the end for charcoal production in Ohio.

The owners of the two remaining charcoal plants in Ohio say they can't install the emission control devices the EPA insists upon without losing business to their major competitors in other states, primarily Missouri, where similar controls aren't required.

Both plants are in southeastern Ohio along Ohio 93—the Roseville Charcoal & Manufacturing Co. at McArthur and Victory Charcoal Co. two miles north of here.

A spokesman for the EPA at Nelsonville agreed that the state of Missouri exempts plants which are in remote areas from air pollution restrictions.

Jay Allen, operator of the Victory plant, said there are about 50 charcoal plants in Missouri which are exempt from installing antipollution equipment for at least 10 years.

He said the equipment would cause a boost of $30 per ton for charcoal—about a 25 per cent increase.

An official at Roseville agreed with Allen's figures.

The Victory plant was built in 1941 to produce charcoal. Allen's father and grandfather operated it before him. Allen said there has been just one complaint about the smoke in all the years the plant has been in operation.

The EPA last summer denied a permit for the Victory plant to continue its smoke emissions and is now seeking a consent order from Allen to stop operating by Feb. 28.

Allen has stopped production but still is contesting the EPA order. He doesn't believe the plant is causing any harm. He said the wood slabs burned to make charcoal probably would be burned at lumber mills or cut into fire wood. Either use, he contends, would cause as much smoke as his plant does.

The EPA spokesman said operators of lumber mills are not permitted to burn slabs unless they have kilns.

The Roseville plant is a former brick factory which has been used for charcoal production for about 10 years.

An EPA hearing for this plant was begun in November, but its conclusion has been postponed until early February.

National Park Summer Jobs

Applicants for summer positions at national parks, monuments, recreation or historical areas in the Midwest Region should obtain the National Park Service's employment information packet as the first step in a revised hiring program.

The information packet, available now, includes application forms, job descriptions and qualifications statements. It can be obtained by writing the Personnel Office, Midwest Region, National Park Service, 1709 Jackson St., Omaha, Neb. 68102, or by telephoning (402) 221-3456.

However, Regional Director Merrill D. "Dave" Beal cautions that only about 200 jobs will be available in the Region's 26 park areas and nearly 6,500 qualified applications can be expected.

The NPS seasonal work force in the Midwest Region will total about 600, most working between Memorial Day and Labor Day. Around 400 of these positions are expected to be filled by returning employes with proven work records, leaving only about 200 positions available to other applicants, Beal said.

Applications for such positions as park aid, park technician, park naturalist and park ranger, and for unskilled labor positions, will be accepted at the Regional Office in Omaha between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15 for all park areas in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. No applications for these seasonal jobs will be accepted by individual parks. However, applicants for skilled maintenance positions—as opposed to unskilled labor positions—should contact the individual park for employment information.

Persons interested in park jobs outside the Midwest Region should contact the appropriate Regional Personnel Office. Addresses are available from any NPS office.

Miss Joyce Kay Valentine Alan F. Sedlak Are Wed

MR. AND MRS. ALAN F. SEDLAK

Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church of Circleville was the setting for the wedding of Miss Joyce Kay Valentine and Mr. Alan F. Sedlak.

The Rev. Valerie Valentine Delmater performed the double ring service 1:30 p.m., Dec. 4, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Valentine, 4874 Emerson Road, Circleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Sedlak, 15641 Sylvia Drive, Brook Park.

The altar table, organ and piano were adorned with Christmas floral arrangements and poinsettias. Candelabra decorated with large red velvet bows flanked the altar and red satin bows and pine branches marked the pews.

Mr. Donald Metzler was organist and Mrs. Norman Wilson, vocalist.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she selected a gown of ivory jersey knit with ruching and venise lace around the V-neckline and at the wrists of the long fitted sleeves. A set-in waistband topped the A-line skirt flowing softly into a chapel length train. The bride's two tiered veil of illusion was edged with venise lace and held by a profile cap made of lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of miniature red and white carnations, baby's breath, and holly, tied with ivory velvet tubing. Her only jewelry was a heart shaped topaz necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Maid of honor was Miss Kathy Valentine, and matron of honor was Mrs. Donald Bucher of Lyndon, sisters of the bride. They wore identical full length sleeveless gowns of red jersey knit with empire waistlines and matching long sleeved coats with front ties and hoods. They carried colonial bouquets of miniature red and white carnations, holly and star flowers, tied with red and green velvet tubing. The Misses Debby Whaley and Twana Moats presided at the guest book. The attendants all wore silver lockets, gifts of the bride.

Flower girl, Miss Lesley Wilson, a cousin of the bride, carried a white Christmas basket of red flower petals. She was gowned as the attendants in green.

Master Timothy Wilson, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on an ivory pillow.

Mr. Robert A. Minor served his friend as best man. Ushers were Mr. James B. Farmer, Mr. Thomas P. Webster, and Mr. Gary W. Sedlak, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother was attired in a floor length gown of jade green jersey with a V-neckline, set-in waistband, full A-line skirt and long jacket with fitted sleeves.

The bridegroom's mother chose a formal length gown of magnolia pink jersey topped with a fitted belted tunic with silver trim. Corsages for both mothers were of red and white carnations with tiny bells and holly.

A reception in the social room of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The five tiered cake was topped with the bride and bridegroom figures used by the bride's parents at their wedding. Holly and red berries decorated the cake surrounded with holly leaves at the base and flanked with red tapers in crystal holders.

Hostesses were Mrs. Asa Bradbury, Mrs. William Keener and Miss Jeanne Wright of Circleville, and Mrs. Philip Diehl of Kingston, all cousins of the bride.

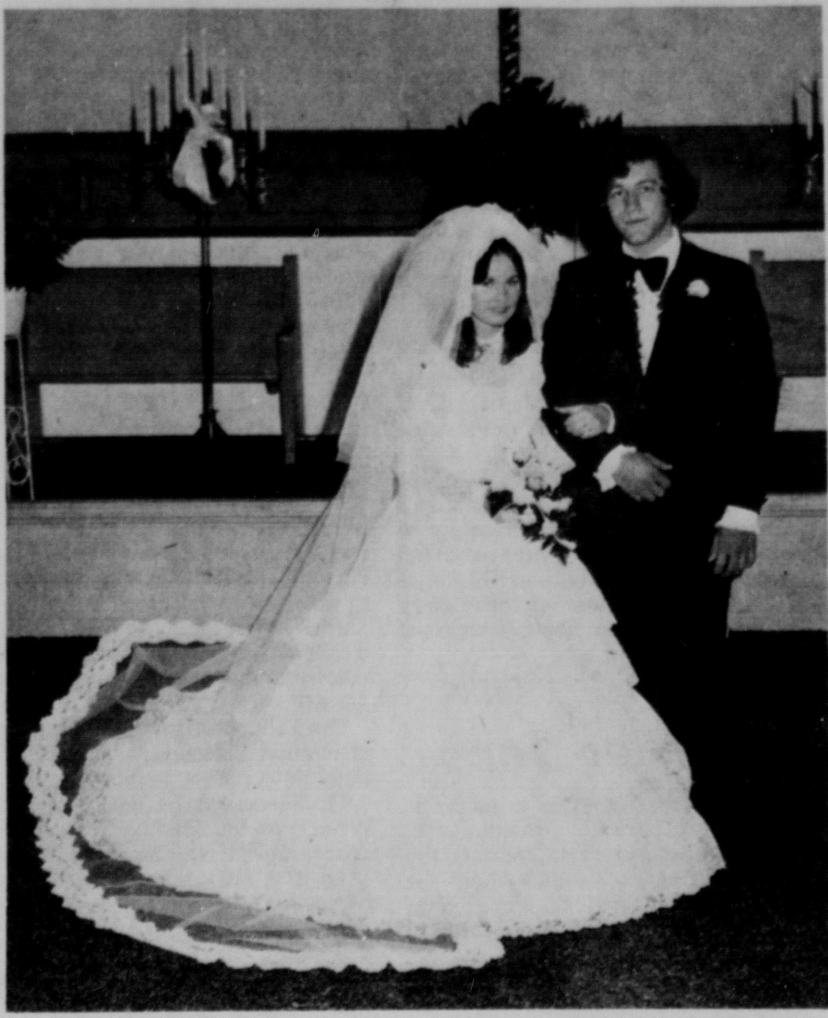
The bride wore beige knit slacks with coordinating twin sweaters and matching accessories as the couple left for a wedding trip to Hawaii. They now reside at Apt. 5980E, Lake Club Square, Columbus.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Logan Elm High School and in 1974 graduated from the Ohio State University with a BA degree in sociology. She is employed by the Ohio Adult Parole Authority as a probation officer.

The bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of Northwestern University in Chicago and 1975 graduate of the Ohio State University College of Law. He is currently engaged in the practice of law in Ashville as an associate of David Kraft.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Cleveland, Toledo, Pandora, Columbus, Chillicothe, Brook Park, New Concord, Belpre, Zanesville, Ohio; Boston, Mass.; Buffalo, N.Y. and Homer City, Pa.

Isaac-Moss Wedding Vows Exchanged In Laurelville



MR. AND MRS. GREGORY LYNN MOSS

Miss Mary Ruth Isaac, daughter of Mrs. Betty Lou Isaac, 1249 Turner Drive, and Mr. Lincoln Ernest Isaac, 310 Ruth Ave., Circleville, and Mr. Gregory Lynn Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Moss, 29737 Jackson Road, Kingston were united in marriage at Laurelville Church of God.

The Rev. Lynn Summers performed the double ring candlelight service before the altar adorned with arrangements of bronze and yellow mums backed with palms.

A program of nuptial selections preceding the wedding was presented by Mrs. Evelyn Boyd, organist and Mrs. Karen Hartley, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a formal length gown of white chantilly lace. The bodice featured a high neckline, long sleeves and a ruffle edged yoke. Tiers of the lace cascaded into a billowing skirt sweeping into a chapel length train. The bride's lace edged cathedral length train was held by a lace cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with fern atop a white Bible.

Miss Peggy Lynn Isaac was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a long rust colored formal length gown with a matching jacket. She carried a single long stemmed carnation with ribbon matching her gown. Her gold cross necklace was a gift from the bride and bridegroom.

Miss Anna Marie Isaac, sister of the bride, and Miss Teressa Moss, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore formal length gowns of dark blue and dark green respectively. Lace enhanced the necklines and sleeves and they carried single carnations with ribbons matching their gowns. They also wore gold necklaces, gifts of the couple.

Miss Leslie Dawn Marburger, cousin of the bride, was flower girl in a dark blue velvet dress and flowers in her hair. She carried a basket of flower petals.

Master Shawn Moss, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a pillow shaped as a cross.

Mr. Rick Allen served as best man. Mr. Mark Moss and Mr. Tim Moss, brothers of the bridegroom were ushers.

The bride's mother selected a long mint green formal length gown with a coordinating green and white jacket. The bridegroom's mother wore a full length gown of fall colors with a matching jacket. Corsages for both mothers were of white carnations.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with wedding bells and two floral arrangements centered with burning candles.

Hostesses were Mrs. Connie Wooten and Mrs. Melba Clifton, cousins of the bride; Mrs. Pabby Moss, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Dolly Perkins, an aunt of the bride.

For a trip in the eastern states including Washington D.C., Maryland and Ocean City, the bride wore a brown and green knit pantsuit. The couple now resides at Jefferson Addition in Circleville.

The bride attended Circleville High School and graduated from Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School. The bridegroom, a graduate of Logan Elm High School, is employed by the Circleville General Electric Lamp Plant.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clark, Lesage, W. Va.; Miss Peggy Isaac, Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. James Blankenship, Columbus.

Christmas Story DAR Program

Pickaway Plains Chapter of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, met recently in the meeting room of Pickaway County Historical Society.

Mrs. George McGhee, in charge of the program, said "The Christmas Story is one that we never grow tired of hearing. Although it is nearly 2000 years old we are all truly impressed each time we read or hear the story of the Christ Child." She read the story entitled "The Star" written by Florence M. Kingsley, taken from the anthology "Christ And The Fine Arts" from the section "The Life Of Christ" by Cynthia Pearl Mans.

Following the story, Mrs. David Dill, a member of the Metta Larks, sang "Jesu Bambino" and "Christmas Was Made For Children," accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Peters.

Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, president, opened the business meeting in ritualistic form assisted by Mrs. Emerson Spicer, chaplain. Mrs. Christian Schwarz led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America followed by members singing "The Star Spangled Banner" accompanied by Mrs. Peters. Mrs. Peters read a letter from Mrs. Wakelee Rawson Smith, president general. Mrs. J. Austin Dowden gave excerpts from communications by Mrs. Nelson Embrey, state chairman of national defense. She quoted "It can happen here" with reference to duties in order to maintain a democratic republic.

Mrs. Bartholomew welcomed a new member, Miss Regina Bluck.

Hostesses were Mrs. George Bowling, Mrs. Orville West, Miss Helen Mettler, Mrs. Clifton Mahaffey, Mrs. James Dunton, Mrs. James Adams, Miss Florence Brown, Mrs. William Goodchild, Mrs. Walter Strawser, Mrs. Paul Dean, Mrs. Ellery S. Elick and Mrs. Daniel Eitel.

Miss Joyce Kay Valentine Alan F. Sedlak Are Wed

MR. AND MRS. ALAN F. SEDLAK

Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church of Circleville was the setting for the wedding of Miss Joyce Kay Valentine and Mr. Alan F. Sedlak.

The Rev. Valerie Valentine Delmater performed the double ring service 1:30 p.m., Dec. 4, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Valentine, 4874 Emerson Road, Circleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Sedlak, 15641 Sylvia Drive, Brook Park.

The altar table, organ and piano were adorned with Christmas floral arrangements and poinsettias. Candelabra decorated with large red velvet bows flanked the altar and red satin bows and pine branches marked the pews.

Mr. Donald Metzler was organist and Mrs. Norman Wilson, vocalist.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she selected a gown of ivory jersey knit with ruching and venise lace around the V-neckline and at the wrists of the long fitted sleeves. A set-in waistband topped the A-line skirt flowing softly into a chapel length train. The bride's two tiered veil of illusion was edged with venise lace and held by a profile cap made of lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of miniature red and white carnations, baby's breath, and holly, tied with ivory velvet tubing. Her only jewelry was a heart shaped topaz necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Maid of honor was Miss Kathy Valentine, and matron of honor was Mrs. Donald Bucher of Lyndon, sisters of the bride. They wore identical full length sleeveless gowns of red jersey knit with empire waistlines and matching long sleeved coats with front ties and hoods. They carried colonial bouquets of miniature red and white carnations, holly and star flowers, tied with red and green velvet tubing. The Misses Debby Whaley and Twana Moats presided at the guest book. The attendants all wore silver lockets, gifts of the bride.

Flower girl, Miss Lesley Wilson, a cousin of the bride, carried a white Christmas basket of red flower petals. She was gowned as the attendants in green.

Master Timothy Wilson, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on an ivory pillow.

Mr. Robert A. Minor served his friend as best man. Ushers were Mr. James B. Farmer, Mr. Thomas P. Webster, and Mr. Gary W. Sedlak, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother was attired in a floor length gown of jade green jersey with a V-neckline, set-in waistband, full A-line skirt and long jacket with fitted sleeves.

The bridegroom's mother chose a formal length gown of magnolia pink jersey topped with a fitted belted tunic with silver trim. Corsages for both mothers were of red and white carnations with tiny bells and holly.

A reception in the social room of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The five tiered cake was topped with the bride and bridegroom figures used by the bride's parents at their wedding. Holly and red berries decorated the cake surrounded with holly leaves at the base and flanked with red tapers in crystal holders.

Hostesses were Mrs. Asa Bradbury, Mrs. William Keener and Miss Jeanne Wright of Circleville, and Mrs. Philip Diehl of Kingston, all cousins of the bride.

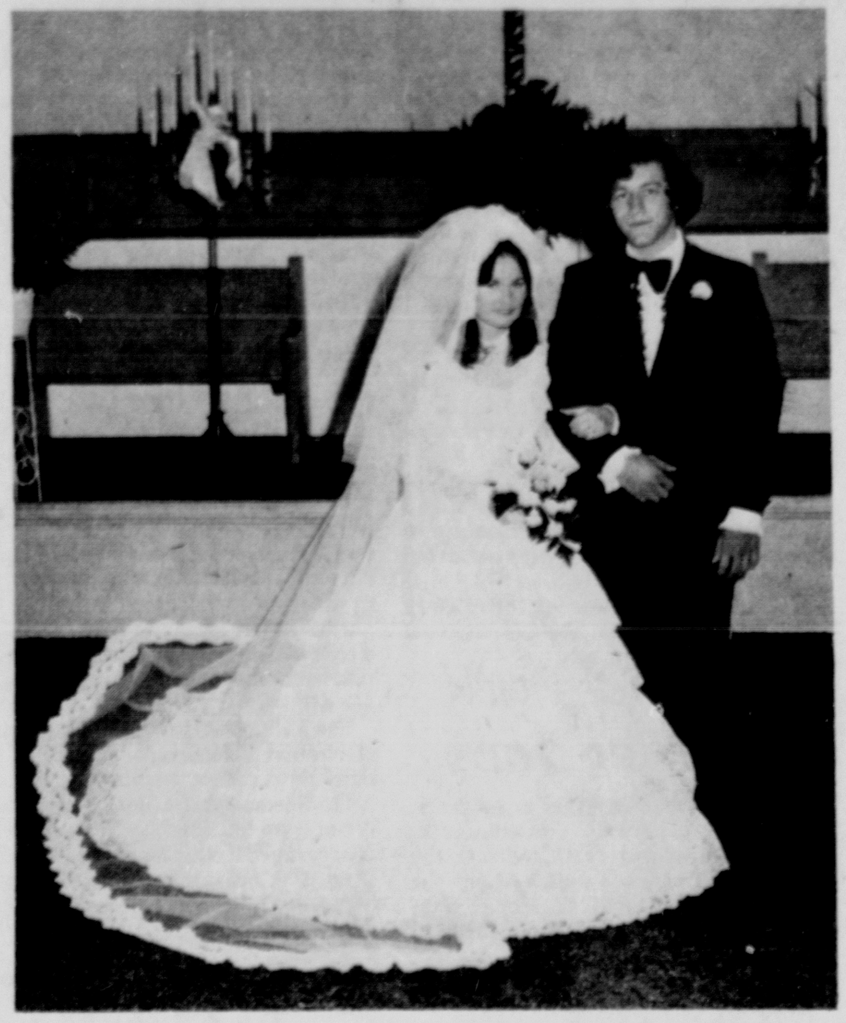
The bride wore beige knit slacks with coordinating twin sweaters and matching accessories as the couple left for a wedding trip to Hawaii. They now reside at Apt. 5980E, Lake Club Square, Columbus.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Logan Elm High School and in 1974 graduated from the Ohio State University with a BA degree in sociology. She is employed by the Ohio Adult Parole Authority as a probation officer.

The bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of Northwestern University in Chicago and 1975 graduate of the Ohio State University College of Law. He is currently engaged in the practice of law in Ashville as an associate of David Kraft.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Cleveland, Toledo, Pandora, Columbus, Chillicothe, Brook Park, New Concord, Belpre, Zanesville, Ohio; Boston, Mass.; Buffalo, N.Y. and Homer City, Pa.

Isaac-Moss Wedding Vows Exchanged In Laurelville



MR. AND MRS. GREGORY LYNN MOSS

Miss Mary Ruth Isaac, daughter of Mrs. Betty Lou Isaac, 1249 Turner Drive, and Mr. Lincoln Ernest Isaac, 310 Ruth Ave., Circleville, and Mr. Gregory Lynn Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Moss, 29737 Jackson Road, Kingston were united in marriage at Laurelville Church of God.

The Rev. Lynn Summers performed the double ring candlelight service before the altar adorned with arrangements of bronze and yellow mums backed with palms.

A program of nuptial selections preceding the wedding was presented by Mrs. Evelyn Boyd, organist and Mrs. Karen Hartley, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a formal length gown of white chantilly lace. The bodice featured a high neckline, long sleeves and a ruffle edged yoke. Tiers of the lace cascaded into a billowing skirt sweeping into a chapel length train. The bride's lace edged cathedral length train was held by a lace cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with fern atop a white Bible.

Miss Peggy Lynn Isaac was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a long rust colored formal length gown with a matching jacket. She carried a single long stemmed carnation with ribbon matching her gown. Her gold cross necklace was a gift from the bride and bridegroom.

Miss Anna Marie Isaac, sister of the bride, and Miss Teressa Moss, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore formal length gowns of dark blue and dark green respectively. Lace enhanced the necklines and sleeves and they carried single carnations with ribbons matching their gowns. They also wore gold necklaces, gifts of the couple.

Miss Leslie Dawn Marburger, cousin of the bride, was flower girl in a dark blue velvet dress and flowers in her hair. She carried a basket of flower petals.

Master Shawn Moss, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a pillow shaped as a cross.

Mr. Rick Allen served as best man. Mr. Mark Moss and Mr. Tim Moss, brothers of the bridegroom were ushers.

The bride's mother selected a long mint green formal length gown with a coordinating green and white jacket. The bridegroom's mother wore a full length gown of fall colors with a matching jacket. Corsages for both mothers were of white carnations.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with wedding bells and two floral arrangements centered with burning candles.

Hostesses were Mrs. Connie Wooten and Mrs. Melba Clifton, cousins of the bride; Mrs. Pabby Moss, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Dolly Perkins, an aunt of the bride.

For a trip in the eastern states including Washington D.C., Maryland and Ocean City, the bride wore a brown and green knit pantsuit. The couple now resides at Jefferson Addition in Circleville.

The bride attended Circleville High School and graduated from Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School. The bridegroom, a graduate of Logan Elm High School, is employed by the Circleville General Electric Lamp Plant.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clark, Lesage, W. Va.; Miss Peggy Isaac, Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. James Blankenship, Columbus.

CPSC Sets Poncho Recall

Cotton City Industries, Inc., and J. C. Penney Company, Inc., in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, announced a recall on ponchos that may have a flammable fringe.

The recall involves about 16,000 multi-colored and plaid ponchos manufactured by Cotton City Industries, Inc., and sold to consumers between May and November 1976. The ponchos, suitable for girls and women, may present a hazard if the frayed edge of the solid color cotton fringe encircling the acrylic garment comes into direct contact with an open flame or high heat source.

The poncho is an apparel item to be slipped over the head and draped over shoulders and arms and secured by a rope-like tie around the mid-section.

The garments involved were sold and distributed principally through J.C. Penney's retail stores. A limited number were sold to Foley's Department Store, Houston, Texas, and even smaller numbers sold to small retail stores.

The ponchos purchased from Penney's are identified with a label in the neck area marked JCP8203 with either style no. 3050, 3051 or 3052. Ponchos purchased from any of the other stores are marked 9815.

The garment should not be worn further and consumers may return it to the place of purchase for a cash refund or credit.

For further information, consumers may call the CPSC Hotline, 800-638-2666 (Maryland resident only 800-492-2937).

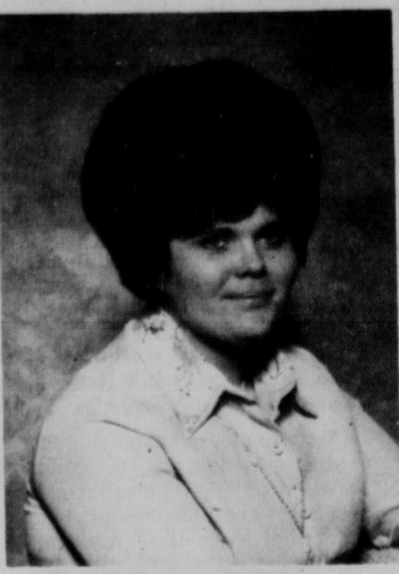
Campus Notes

A total of 342 students at Ohio Northern University have been named to the Deans' List at the conclusion of the fall quarter. These students attained a 3.5 grade average or better on the 4.0 system. Three of these students are from Circleville.

Sophomore Mary Lou Horst, a business administration major, received a straight 4.0 for the quarter. John Payne, a freshman majoring in business administration and economics, and David Shank, a senior in civil engineering were also on the list.

Ohio Northern is a 106-year-old, independent university located in Northwest Ohio comprised of four colleges; law, engineering, pharmacy and liberal arts.

Nancy Pontius Goldsberry has recently been initiated into the Pi Lambda Theta National Honor and Professional Association in Education. This honor is offered to those with high scholastic achievement and faculty recommendations of keen interest in education. Mrs. Goldsberry, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pontius, is a student at Ohio State University in the College of Education.



MARCELLA E. HOSTETLER

Marcella E. Hostetler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. Ward, 359 Watt St., is a recent graduate from Columbus Business University. She received an associate degree in applied science this year.

Presently, Ms. Hostetler is employed in the computer department at the Defense Construction Supply Center of Columbus. She is associated with the Secretarial Club and the Child Development Club.

Following high school graduation in 1965, Ms. Hostetler graduated in the secretarial field from Columbus Business University in September, 1976.

Karol Carpenter, 130 Marshall Road, is one of 107 students from Rio Grande College-Community College (RGC-CC) honored for outstanding academic achievement by being named to the Dean's Honor Roll.

Miss Carpenter earned an "A" average (3.75 or higher) as a full-time student during the fall quarter at Rio Grande. Only 12 per cent of RGC-CC's students are able to claim the honor.

New Knoxville Gas Well Running Out

NEW KNOXVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Eldon Haberkamp's effort to beat the energy crunch has run out of gas.

Haberkamp and his brother, Adrian, drilled a home grown natural gas and oil well for income and energy. But the source is drying up.

"We may pump it until spring possibly and get off what (oil) we can and then plug it," Haberkamp said. The two brothers own Pyropak Manufacturing.

"The gas pressure is going down just a little week by week, and from what I gather it gets worse instead of better," he said.

The first gas and oil well to be drilled in Auglaize County in recent years was brought in Sept. 30 in a corn field 50 yards south of the firm's building complex near Neil Armstrong County Airport east of New Knoxville.

Haberkamp said the well cost about $11,000 to bring in. It began producing about a barrel and a half of crude oil a day.

The tool and die company was prompted to hunt for natural gas because of the spiraling cost of bottled gas to heat the building.

The brothers hoped to recoup the drilling cost by selling off the oil and saving the money over a five-year period by using the natural gas as an additional heat source.

But the oil output is "slipping, too," said Haberkamp. "We're not pumping every day now. Sometimes, it's every other day and even every third day. We're getting the same amount of crude oil—a barrel and a half—but it's coming in every second or third day."

Unless the drillers, who share the cost and royalties, decide differently, Haberkamp said, "we're going to pull the casing and shut the well down in the spring."

Lab Awarded Cash For Study

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Great Lakes Laboratory of Buffalo State College has been awarded $62,435 to collect water quality data from Lake Erie's eastern tributaries, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers announced.

On Ohio, the lab will collect water from Conneaut Creek, Ashtabula, Grand, Chagrin, Cuyahoga, Rocky, Black and Vermilion rivers.

The data will be used to develop a mathematical water quality model for Lake Erie watersheds to determine causes of pollutant generation from the land, and to learn how pollutants are delivered to Lake Erie by the rivers. The western tributaries already are under study.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Mrs. Sarah Weaver was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Circleville Moundbuilders Kiwanis Club. She and her husband have spent five years in Australia in the New South Wales area. She showed slides depicting the wildlife and scenery of the area. Guests at the meeting were Clarence Borror, and from the Lancaster Kiwanis Club, Don Hobbs, C. B. Snider, Loren Lonberger, and Jim Bletzacker.

Alternate proposals for certain items are required by the drawings.

All proposals shall be made in conformity with the revised code of Ohio in a sealed envelope and addressed to the Pickaway County Commissioners, Circleville, Ohio, and endorsed "Proposal for General Contract, Electrical Contract, Heating, Ventilating, and Air Conditioning Contract, and Plumbing Contract, Equipment Contract, and other Miscellaneous Equipment" on the outside of the envelope. Bid forms are bound in the specifications. Each bid must contain the name of each person and every person interested therein and shall be accompanied by a bid bond, also bound in the specifications, with corporate surety thereon authorized to do business in the State of Ohio to the Pickaway County Commissioners or by a certified check or cashier's check on a solvent bank located in the State of Ohio in an amount equal to five (5 per cent) per cent of the total amount of the bid, stated in dollars and cents, conditioned that if the bid be accepted, a contract will be entered into and the performance thereof properly secured by a performance bond in accordance with law.

Said bond shall be made in favor of the Pickaway County Commissioners, Circleville, Ohio, and certified check shall be made payable to the Treasurer of Pickaway County.

The bond or certified check shall be forfeited if said bidder fails to enter into the contract and secured performance thereof within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of the bid. A performance and payment bond with corporate surety thereon satisfactory to the said Commissioners in the amount equal to one hundred (100 per cent) percent of the aggregate bid price conditioned in accordance with law shall be required.

Plans and specifications and Contract Documents may be examined at the following offices:

Gene Swartz & Associates

Circleville, Ohio 43113

Builder's Exchange
Columbus, Ohio

Plans and specifications covering the proposed construction are available and may be secured from the office of the Architect, 249 South Paint Street, Chillicothe, Ohio, 45601. A deposit of $40.00 per set will be required for plans and specifications. The deposit will be returned upon return of the plans within ten (10) days after the date bids are opened. Shipping charges shall be prepaid.

Subcontractors and material suppliers may acquire for their convenience plans and specifications or portions thereof upon receipt of payment covering the cost of reproduction. Charges will be made at the rate of $2.50 per sheet of drawings including pertinent specifications. This cost is not refundable.

Attention of bidders is particularly called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under this contract. Contractors are further advised that in accordance with the provisions of the January 27, 1972 Executive Order by the Governor of Ohio, equal employment opportunity conditions are applicable to this bid invitation.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within sixty (60) days after the actual date of the opening thereof.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or to reject any or all bids.

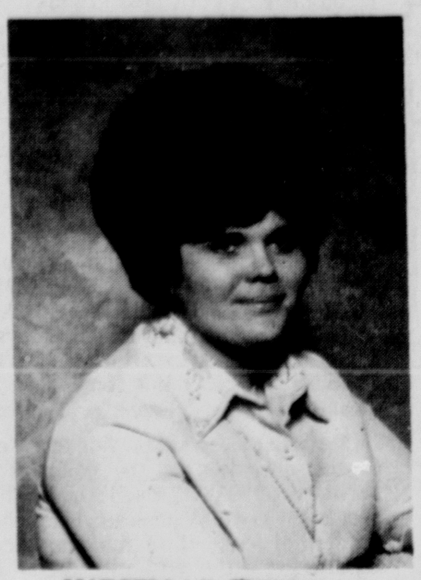
Campus Notes

A total of 342 students at Ohio Northern University have been named to the Deans' List at the conclusion of the fall quarter. These students attained a 3.5 grade average or better on the 4.0 system. Three of these students are from Circleville.

Sophomore Mary Lou Horst, a business administration major, received a straight 4.0 for the quarter. John Payne, a freshman majoring in business administration and economics, and David Shank, a senior in civil engineering were also on the list.

Ohio Northern is a 106-year-old, independent university located in Northwest Ohio comprised of four colleges; law, engineering, pharmacy and liberal arts.

Nancy Pontius Goldsberry has recently been initiated into the Pi Lambda Theta National Honor and Professional Association in Education. This honor is offered to those with high scholastic achievement and faculty recommendations of keen interest in education. Mrs. Goldsberry, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pontius, is a student at Ohio State University in the College of Education.



MARCELLA E. HOSTETLER

Marcella E. Hostetler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. Ward, 359 Watt St., is a recent graduate from Columbus Business University. She received an associate degree in applied science this year.

Presently, Ms. Hostetler is employed in the computer department at the Defense Construction Supply Center of Columbus. She is associated with the Secretarial Club and the Child Development Club.

Following high school graduation in 1965, Ms. Hostetler graduated in the secretarial field from Columbus Business University in September, 1976.

Karol Carpenter, 130 Marshall Road, is one of 107 students from Rio Grande College-Community College (RGC-CC) honored for outstanding academic achievement by being named to the Dean's Honor Roll.

Miss Carpenter earned an "A" average (3.75 or higher) as a full-time student during the fall quarter at Rio Grande. Only 12 per cent of RGC-CC's students are able to claim the honor.

New Knoxville Gas Well Running Out

NEW KNOXVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Eldon Haberkamp's effort to beat the energy crunch has run out of gas.

Haberkamp and his brother, Adrian, drilled a home grown natural gas and oil well for income and energy. But the source is drying up.

"We may pump it until spring possibly and get off what (oil) we can and then plug it," Haberkamp said. The two brothers own Pyropak Manufacturing.

"The gas pressure is going down just a little week by week, and from what I gather it gets worse instead of better," he said.

The first gas and oil well to be drilled in Auglaize County in recent years was brought in Sept. 30 in a corn field 50 yards south of the firm's building complex near Neil Armstrong County Airport east of New Knoxville.

Haberkamp said the well cost about $11,000 to bring in. It began producing about a barrel and a half of crude oil a day.

The tool and die company was prompted to hunt for natural gas because of the spiraling cost of bottled gas to heat the building.

The brothers hoped to recoup the drilling cost by selling off the oil and saving the money over a five-year period by using the natural gas as an additional heat source.

But the oil output is "slipping, too," said Haberkamp. "We're not pumping every day now. Sometimes, it's every other day and even every third day. We're getting the same amount of crude oil—a barrel and a half—but it's coming in every second or third day."

Unless the drillers, who share the cost and royalties, decide differently, Haberkamp said, "we're going to pull the casing and shut the well down in the spring."

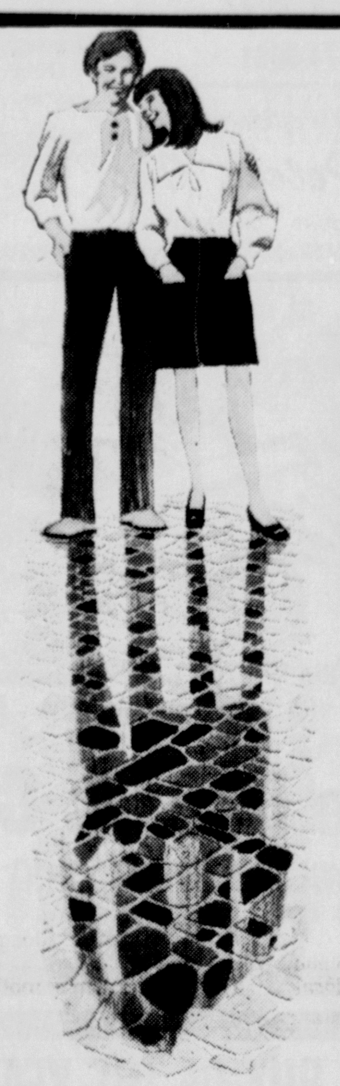
Lab Awarded Cash For Study

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Great Lakes Laboratory of Buffalo State College has been awarded $62,435 to collect water quality data from Lake Erie's eastern tributaries, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers announced.

On Ohio, the lab will collect water from Conneaut Creek, Ashtabula, Grand, Chagrin, Cuyahoga, Rocky, Black and Vermilion rivers.

The data will be used to develop a mathematical water quality model for Lake Erie watersheds to determine causes of pollutant generation from the land, and to learn how pollutants are delivered to Lake Erie by the rivers. The western tributaries already are under study.

KIWANIS SPEAKER — Mrs. Sarah Weaver was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Circleville Moundbuilders Kiwanis Club. She and her husband have spent five years in Australia in the New South Wales area. She showed slides depicting the wildlife and scenery of the area. Guests at the meeting were Clarence Borror, and from the Lancaster Kiwanis Club, Don Hobbs, C. B. Snider, Loren Lonberger, and Jim Bletzacker.



Armstrong Solarian®, the no-wax floor that keeps on shining long after the honeymoon is over.

You may not mind it at first, but scrubbing and waxing floors is work. That's why so many young couples choose Armstrong Solarian for their pad. Solarian actually does shine without waxing. The special Mirabond™ wear surface has a gleaming shine of its own. And it keeps its high gloss—without waxing—far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor. Poker party spills, dirt, even black heel marks come up easily, ending the drudgery of scrubbing and waxing, so you can live happily ever after.

Dunlap Offers Complete Equipment

The Dunlap Company in Williamsport has been in the farm equipment business for the past 44 years, and you can bet that they will be in business tomorrow.

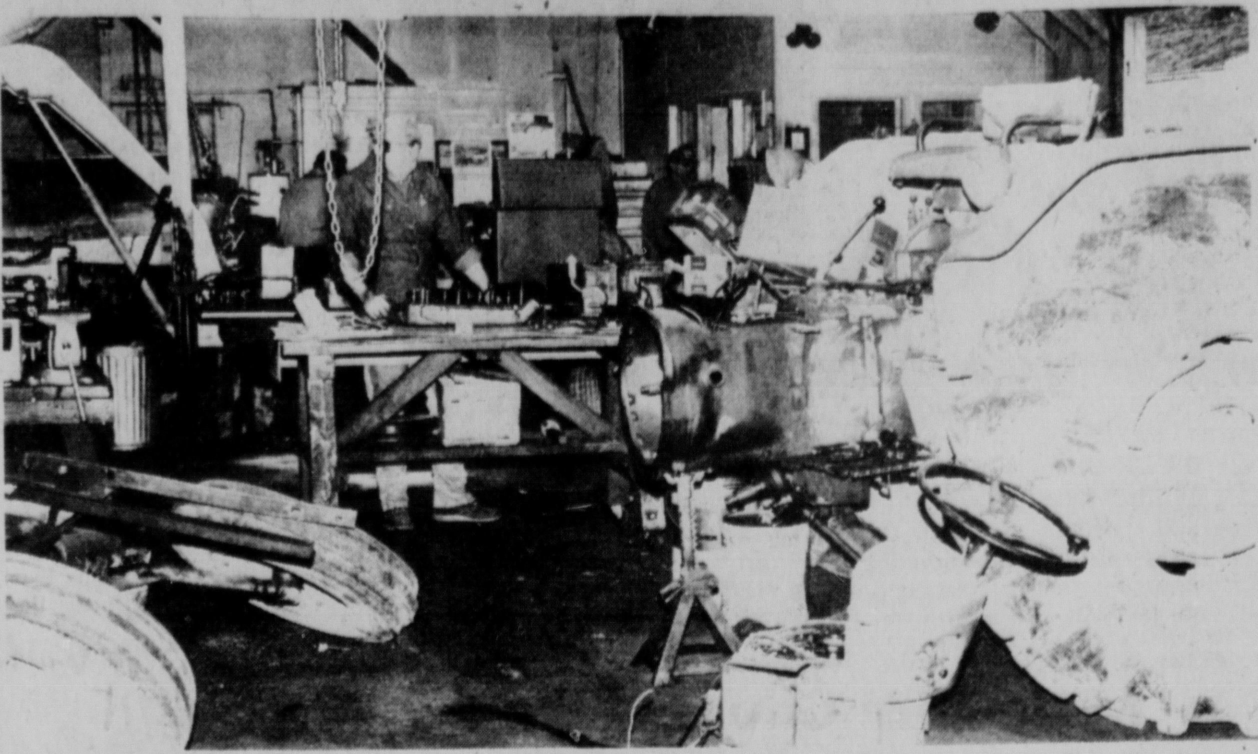
They have made a successful business because they use the personal touch, and they are an authorized franchise for the Massey-Ferguson Company. The Dunlap Company offers a complete line of tractors, combines, and other equipment that can be used to make your farm operation one of the most efficient and modern in the area. Items at the Dunlap Company include Kewanee and Bush Hog equipment, along with gravity beds, augers, elevators, tillage tools, running gears, and an excellent line of farm drain tile and galvanized farm drain pipe.

The Dunlap Company is just not talking when they sell you farm equipment. The Williamsport-based company farms and manages over 12,000 acres of land, most of which is in Pickaway County, but some also is located in Ross and Franklin Counties.

One of the most outstanding features of the operation is the company's service department, which is one of the best in the area. Besides servicing, the personnel in the maintenance department also assemble the new equipment as it is shipped in.

Besides farmers, the Dunlap Company also has a line of light-weight industrial tractors for sales and service. In the slim chance that the Dunlap Company doesn't have your item in stock, they can get quick delivery to the store.

Remember, after nearly a half century in the farm equipment business, you can bet that the Dunlap Company will be there tomorrow.



NO REPAIR work is too big for the Dunlap Company service department to correct. The Williamsport based company services and sells a top line of farm equipment - Massey-Ferguson.

THIS IS the Massey-Ferguson 1805 four wheel drive tractor. It features a V-8 Caterpillar diesel engine (636 cubic inches) with 210 horsepower. It features varied equipment that can suit your individual needs, including a 1000 rpm power take-off shaft or a three point hitch linkage that can pull semi mounted plows. It comes equipped with a pressurized cab and heater and air conditioner are available. It is available in tire sizes from 18.4 up to 30.5 in standard or dual.

DUNLAP WORKERS are capable of assembling all kinds of farm equipment, even large pieces like this MF Model 300 combine.

Cincinnati Club Wipes Out Deficit

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 84-year-old Cincinnati Club wiped out a $104,929 deficit in one year without a dues hike and financially failing city clubs in other urban centers are asking how they did it.

"It became apparent early that the undoing of this club and private city clubs across the country was precedent," said Edward Slone, who recently completed his one year term as president.

"Too many things were being done because that's the way we've always done them."

Slone said that such cost items were not necessarily traditional.

The club officers ordered tighter efficiency in several areas, yet no dues increases were imposed on members. members.

"For example, we had some employes whose task was cleaning rooms," said Slone. "One person would clean four rooms per night. One of the (downtown) hotel managers told us that if his room cleaners didn't handle 15 rooms a night each he would dismiss the workers."

The trustees also heard grumbling when they raised food prices but that cooled once the financial plight was ended putting an end to rumors that the club would have to close.

"I get mailings from other city cubs across the nation and those that haven't closed are failing," said Ronald Collins, a new manager. "We're just the opposite."

Aside from the efficiency program, Collins noted there has been an increase in membership.

"There is more business conducted at the Cincinnati Club than at any other single business location in town," Collins said. "Today, we are receiving more and more applications from young business persons because they know the value of business contacts here."

Collins said there are no restrictions to membership. "But only recently—this year—have we been able to offer women full status. There is no question about our having female officers and trustees in the future.

"Women now come to the club primarily for the social activities," Collins said.

The club has approximately 2,500 members. Resident members pay a $300 initiation fee and monthly dues of $35.

"If you're looking for a tangible receipt for your $35, you're going to be disappointed," said Collins.

"We give much more than that in services, but don't look for a $35 product each month. That's not club business."

Mission Of Mercy Proves Expensive

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Basch once played a mugger in a film called "The Out-of-Towners," which portrays the plight of an Ohio couple that faces the every day horrors of life in New York City.

The situation was quite reversed on Christmas night for Basch, who now reviews movies for WDTN-TV in Dayton.

Basch, who is from Yellow Springs, Ohio, pulled two feats that would almost astound a native of the Big Apple. He found a cab with no trouble just before midnight Christmas night and he found a locksmith to do a job for him about an hour later.

What it cost him was a bruised body, a bruised ego and about $145 out of pocket.

As he tells it, he and his fiancee came here to spend the holiday in a borrowed apartment on Manhattan's West Side.

Christmas night they went to a party until about 11:15 p.m.

"A cab picked us up and we asked to be taken to a Japanese restaurant. The cabbie said he knew of one and off we went..."

"I noticed we had passed a few Japanese restaurants and when the meter got to reading $3.35 somewhere on the East Side, I realized we were being taken for a ride, so I made the cabbie stop," Basch related.

"I gave him a $5 bill and told him I wanted the change. I sure wasn't going to give him a tip, but he said he wasn't going to give me any change."

Next, Basch continued, both he and the driver were out of the cab and scuffling.

Basch said he was decked by the driver, but the fight ended when a couple happening by broke it up. The cabbie got back in the car and drove off, with all of Basch's $5.

When he got back to the borrowed apartment in another cab—"with trepidation"—Basch discovered that he had lost the keys in the scuffle. The door, like many another in the city, was secured with three separate locks.

Using a helpful neighbor's telephone, Basch dug up a 24-hour locksmith who came over and opened the door.

The locksmith presented the following bill:

Charge for answering the service call: $25;

Picking open one lock, $25;

Drilling open the other two, $15 each;

Installing two new cylinders to replaced the drilled ones, $24.95 each;

Sales tax, $10.39;

Total, $140.29.

Basch's recalled with a note of resignation his former movie role as a mugger. "I guess now the city has taken its revenge on me."

Groups Fail In Call For Open Meets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four public interest groups received an initial rebuff to a request that Ohio's 1975 Open Meetings law be extended to political party caucuses in the legislature.

The American Civil Liberties Union, Ohio Council of Churches, Citizens League of Greater Cleveland and Common Cause-Ohio, said Monday the legislative policy of closed caucuses sets a poor example for other public bodies and implies a double standard.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe, D-89 New Boston, said the legislature does not come under the law.

"My stand is that caucuses will remain closed," he added. "I think other leaders in the past have made practically the same statement.

"Besides, I don't caucus that much."

David C. Hetzler, executive director for Common Cause in Ohio, told a news conference there is new blood in the coming 112th General Assembly and "now is a good time to ask the legislature to meet the spirit of the law."

He said it would be simple for the legislature to amend the law.

"All it takes is a commitment of the leaders to conduct their business in the open," he added.

Hetzler acknowledged there is occasion for closed caucuses where special need is shown but said this should be decided by an open vote of members present.

As it is, he said, there is no accountability.

"No one knows what happens behind closed doors," he added.

Robert Graetz, legislative representative for the Ohio Council of Churches, representing 19 religious denominations, said "We know there are times that business of a bill is decided in caucus. Yet, many people are not aware that caucuses are closed."

"Each organization in this coalition is communicating with the legislators on this," Graetz said. "We, individually, are requesting that these changes be made."

Steel Dumped In America?

HOUSTON (AP) — A steel company executive says the industry is in an economic war with nations that are dumping millions of tons of imported steel into the United States at cut-rate prices.

C. William Verity Jr., chairman of Armco Steel Corp., said Monday the economic battle "is being fought unfairly by those nations who subsidize their steel manufacturing.

"They sell below their cost to keep mills running and their people working. They export not only their steel, but their unemployment to the United States," he said.

Verity met with some of the 1,000 workers who were laid-off their jobs recently at the Armco plant in Houston and asked them to start "a massive letter writing campaign to contact our newly elected congressmen and enlist their help."

He said during the first months of 1976, more than three million tons of foreign steel had been unloaded at Gulf Coast ports.

And, he said, "We estimate that 3,000 steelworkers at Armco and other steel companies in the Houston area lost their jobs during October alone because of the imports."

Cincinnati Club Wipes Out Deficit

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 84-year-old Cincinnati Club wiped out a $104,929 deficit in one year without a dues hike and financially failing city clubs in other urban centers are asking how they did it.

"It became apparent early that the undoing of this club and private city clubs across the country was precedent," said Edward Slone, who recently completed his one year term as president.

"Too many things were being done because that's the way we've always done them."

Slone said that such cost items were not necessarily traditional.

The club officers ordered tighter efficiency in several areas, yet no dues increases were imposed on members.

"For example, we had some employes whose task was cleaning rooms," said Slone. "One person would clean four rooms per night. One of the (downtown) hotel managers told us that if his room cleaners didn't handle 15 rooms a night each he would dismiss the workers."

The trustees also heard grumbling when they raised food prices but that cooled once the financial plight was ended putting an end to rumors that the club would have to close.

"I get mailings from other city cubs across the nation and those that haven't closed are failing," said Ronald Collins, a new manager. "We're just the opposite."

Aside from the efficiency program, Collins noted there has been an increase in membership.

"There is more business conducted at the Cincinnati Club than at any other single business location in town," Collins said. "Today, we are receiving more and more applications from young business persons because they know the value of business contacts here."

Collins said there are no restrictions to membership. "But only recently—this year—have we been able to offer women full status. There is no question about our having female officers and trustees in the future.

"Women now come to the club primarily for the social activities," Collins said.

The club has approximately 2,500 members. Resident members pay a $300 initiation fee and monthly dues of $35.

"If you're looking for a tangible receipt for your $35, you're going to be disappointed," said Collins.

"We give much more than that in services, but don't look for a $35 product each month. That's not club business."

Disaster Coordinator Speaks To Classes

SPEAKER — John Leist, middle, talked with students in a Logan Elm English class on disaster preparations in Pickaway County. He is the county coordinator for the Civil and Disaster Preparedness Agency.

By ALLEN STROUS

John Leist, County coordinator for the Civil and Disaster Preparedness Agency, spoke to Mrs. Barbara Sunnuth's Senior English classes Dec. 13 on local preparations dealing with the aftermath of a tornado.

The classes are studying a unit on how to survive diasters. They learned many things about how Pickaway County would be able to handle a tornado. Leist stated that his organization is staffed by volunteers with a budget of about $1,200. It has a 200-bed hospital, complete with a generator and an operating room. It is stored under Memorial Hall to use after an emergency. Leist also said that foodstuffs and medicines are stored in places throughout Circleville ready to be used if needed. Maps have been drawn up of where construction equipment is located in the county so that it can easily and quickly be found to clear away debris.

The Pickaway County Civil and Disaster Preparedness Agency is one of many such groups in Ohio. They are all affiliated and have their state headquarters in Brighton Armory in Worthington. There is a communications network there so that additional aid can be contacted and sent, if necessary, to places especially hard hit by catastrophe.

L.E.'s First Exchange Is To France

TRACI WARD

By JOAN GOODE

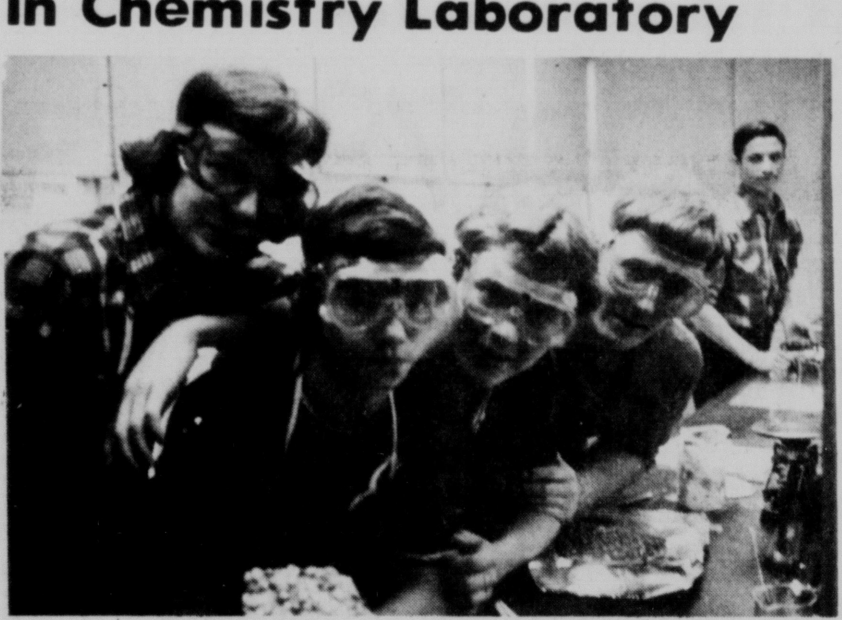
Next year we'll be minus one face in the halls. Traci Ward will be leaving for France in August of this year and will not return until July of 1978.

Traci will be the first exchange student from Logan Elm. "It's very exciting and a big honor to be LE's first exchange student," commented Traci.

French school will be quite different for her. Each class will be two periods long and only three times a week. Traci will be back at LE in 1978 to take government and English IIII in order to fullfill the requirements of an Ohio graduate.

When asked what she would miss most, she answered, "One of the things I'll miss most will be the freedom to come and go as I want. Also my family and Herman, my dog." Peanut butter, jello, and an empty suitcase are three of the items she will take with her.

Peanut Brittle Concocted In Chemistry Laboratory



CHEMISTRY COOKS — Steve Sabine, Jeff Collins, Rock Huggins, Jerry Scanlan and Lab Assistant Dave Rittinger are sampling the peanut brittle they made in Class. No, it's not a home ec class . . . believe it or not these students made peanut brittle in chemistry class.

By JODY FELDMANN

Would you believe peanut brittle? It was a present from our chemistry teacher, Mrs. Mills. Although, she didn't actually give it to us.

Most people wouldn't expect to find a recipe especially for a holiday dessert being used in a chemistry class. But that's what has happened. All advanced science students got a chance to make it. We did it as any other chemistry experiment except for the first time, and probably the last, we got to eat the product.

Everyone used the normal chemistry lab equipment including lab aprons. We measured out the exact amount of chemicals we needed, heated and cooked it until it reached the right temperature, and mixed in the raw peanuts. Most students turned out a tasty conclusion.

Mrs. Mills was asked if she had ever done this before. She answered, "Yes, and I plan to keep on doing it every year. It has become a tradition for advanced science students."

Every Member Is Captain In Basketball

By JODY FELDMAN

I walked into Coach Kobel's office ready to interview him about the basketball captains for Logan Elm's Varsity team. Little did I know our basketball teams had something special going for them.

The words 'basketball captains' aren't applied to any certain people on the team. As I talked to Coach Kobel he explained. A different player is appointed at every game to represent the team as a captain would. The reason being "since you only have 12-13 men on a team, instead of electing one person to represent us as captain we try to rotate it among all the fellows so they can all feel they have a leadership role in our program." Coach Kobel also stated that this helps to develop a team or family concept among our teams.

When asked how the players were working out Kobel replied they were a "close knit group of players working together, supporting each other, and helping each other". He believes in order to be successful this is what the team needs. So far Kobel's idea seems to be working great for Logan Elm's Varsity team.

Future Farmers Discussed Pellet Sale

By WILLIAM RITTINGER

The Logan Elm FFA held its monthly meeting Dec. 14 in the Logan Elm gym at 2:10 p.m. There were 60 members present.

Matters discussed at the meeting were the sale of rat control pellets which are being sold by each FFA member. People interested in the pellets may buy them by contacting any Logan Elm FFA member.

Tom Congrove also reported that approximately $60. was made at the Smith antique sale on Nov. 26. The fruit sale was concluded this week and the profit will be used for the annual parent-member banquet this spring.

Other items which were discussed at the meeting were the pest hunt, donkey basketball game, FHA escorts, the point system, the parlimentary procedure team, and FFA signs. The next meeting will be January 11.

Guidance Teacher New To McDowell

CLAYTON STAHR

By LIZ DORITAN and MONA MARTIN

Clayton Stahr is the new guidance counselor at the McDowell Exchange School. He handles grades kindergarten through eight and also has separate guidance classes for eighth grade students. He is available to discuss students problems and concerns and offers assistance.

Stahr attended Ohio University for his undergraduate work. He then did his graduate work at Xavier University in Cincinnati.

Previously, Stahr taught mathematics and physical education to classes ranging from fifth grade to junior high at Laurelville.

When asked what he thought of the kids here he replied, "They're a pretty nice bunch of youngsters and the faculty is also very friendly". He also thinks that the structure of the school is unique because of its folding and glass walls.

While not teaching, Stahr coaches the seventh grade basketball team. In his spare time Stahr likes camping, traveling, and water skiing. When asked what he thought about teaching he replied, "There is no other occupation that I would choose besides teaching.

Varsity Club Now Organized

By TONY CRIST

The Varsity Club swings into another year of activity. This year the club is under a new adviser, John Corcoran. Corcoran is the coach of the reserve team, who has a successful 5-1 record. Corcoran succeeds Steve Barney who has had the club in the past.

The main goal of the Varsity Club this year is to raise enough money to take their annual trip to King's Island. Corcoran stated, "I'd like to see the club make enough money to put banners in the Spangler Memorial Gym. We made a little over a $100 in the jewelry we sold and this should help a lot." Members of the club ordered Varsity jackets which should be in by Christmas. The next project for the club is to sell T-shirts.

The officers for the Varsity Club this year are as follows: Mike Davis, president; Jerry Scanlon, vice president; Randy Watkins, secretary; John Scanlon, Treasurer; Terry Hampton, seargant at arms; Tony Crist, news reporter. Good luck to the Varsity Club!

We did it as any other chemistry experiment except for the first time, and probably the last, we got to eat the product.

Everyone used the normal chemistry lab equipment including lab aprons. We measured out the exact amount of chemicals we needed, heated and cooked it until it reached the right temperature, and mixed in the raw peanuts. Most students turned out a tasty conclusion.

Mrs. Mills was asked if she had ever done this before. She answered, "Yes, and I plan to keep on doing it every year. It has become a tradition for advanced science students."

Future Farmers Discussed Pellet Sale

By WILLIAM RITTINGER

The Logan Elm FFA held its monthly meeting Dec. 14 in the Logan Elm gym at 2:10 p.m. There were 60 members present.

Matters discussed at the meeting were the sale of rat control pellets which are being sold by each FFA member. People interested in the pellets may buy them by contacting any Logan Elm FFA member.

Tom Congrove also reported that approximately $60. was made at the Smith antique sale on Nov. 26. The fruit sale was concluded this week and the profit will be used for the annual parent-member banquet this spring.

Other items which were discussed at the meeting were the pest hunt, donkey basketball game, FHA escorts, the point system, the parlimentary procedure team, and FFA signs. The next meeting will be January 11.

"Truth is such a rare thing, it is delightful to tell it." Emily Dickinson in a letter to Thomas Wentworth Higgenson, August, 1870.

Every Member Is Captain In Basketball

By JODY FELDMAN

I walked into Coach Kobel's office ready to interview him about the basketball captains for Logan Elm's Varsity team. Little did I know our basketball teams had something special going for them.

The words 'basketball captains' aren't applied to any certain people on the team. As I talked to Coach Kobel he explained. A different player is appointed at every game to represent the team as a captain would. The reason being "since you only have 12-13 men on a team, instead of electing one person to represent us as captain we try to rotate it among all the fellows so they can all feel they have a leadership role in our program." Coach Kobel also stated that this helps to develop a team or family concept among our teams.

When asked how the players were working out Kobel replied they were a "close knit group of players working together, supporting each other, and helping each other". He believes in order to be successful this is what the team needs. So far Kobel's idea seems to be working great for Logan Elm's Varsity team.

NFL All-Pro Gridders Named

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, eliminated from the National Football League playoffs before they ever started, did better on The Associated Press NFL All-Pro team announced today.

Although they missed the playoffs on the final day of the season, four Cardinals were named to the All-Pro squad, giving St. Louis the largest representation of any NFL team.

A nationwide panel of 84 sports writers and broadcasters picked tackle Dan Dierdorf, center Tom Banks, cornerback Roger Wehrli and place-kicker Jim Bakken for the All-Pro honor.

Two players, linebacker Jack Ham of the Pittsburgh Steelers and quarterback Bert Jones of the Baltimore Colts, were runaway winners at their positions. Ham received 63 of the 84 votes and Jones was named on 51 ballots.

Joining Jones in the All-Pro offensive backfield were Buffalo's O.J. Simpson, who won his fourth rushing championship in the last five years, and Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears, who lost the rushing crown to Simpson on the final day of the regular season.

Chosen on the offensive line besides Banks and Dierdorf were guards Joe DeLamielleure of Buffalo and John Hannah of New England and tackle Ron Yary of Minnesota.

The three receivers selected were tight end Dave Casper of Oakland and flankers Drew Pearson of Dallas and Cliff Branch of Oakland.

Another Oakland player, Ray Guy, was picked as the punter.

Los Angeles dominated the first team defense, placing end Jack Youngblood, linebacker Isiah Robertson and cornerback Monte Jackson.

The middle linebacker pivoting for Ham and Robertson is another Steeler, Jack Lambert. Up front with Youngblood are tackles Wally Chambers of Chicago and Jerry Sherk of Cleveland and end John Dutton of Baltimore.

In the secondary with Jackson and Wehrli are Dallas free safety Cliff Harris and strong safety Tom Casanova of Cincinnati. The kick return specialist is Rick Upchurch of Denver.

Oakland's Ken Stabler, statisical leader among the NFL's passers, was named quarterback of the second team. His second-team pass catchers are wide receivers Roger Carr of Baltimore and Isaac Curtis of Cincinnati and tight end Russ Francis of New England. The second team running backs are Chuck Foreman of Minnesota and Lydell Mitchell of Baltimore.

The second team offensive line is composed of Rayfield Wright of Dallas and George Kunz of Baltimore at the tackles and Conrad Dobler of St. Louis and Gene Upshaw of Oakland at the guards with Miami's Jim Langer at center.

On defense, the second team line has Pittsburgh's Joe Greene and Alan Page of Minnesota at the tackles with Tommy Hart of San Francisco and Harvey Martin of Dallas at the ends. The linebackers are Ted Hendricks of Oakland, Bill Bergey of Philadelphia and Robert Brazile of Houston. New England's Mike Haynes and Ken Riley of Cincinnati were selected at the corners with Pittsburgh teammates Mike Wagner and Glen Edwards picked as the safeties.

Efren Herrera on placements is the kicker, John James of Atlanta the punter and Ed Brown of Washington the kick returner.

Sammie White Top Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Sammie White of the Minnesota Vikings, who led the National Conference in touchdown catches and receiving yardage, was named The Associated Press' National Football League Offensive Rookie of the Year today.

The selection of the 5-foot-11, 190-pounder from Grambling, Minnesota's No. 2 draft choice (behind Oklahoma State defensive tackle James White), was overwhelming. Sammy, who hauled in 10 TD passes during the regular season, got the vote from 49 of the 84 sports writers and broadcasters, three from each NFL team.

Los Angeles quarterback Pat Haden, the Rhodes scholar from Southern Cal by way of the defunct World Football League, was second in the balloting with 10 votes. Pittsburgh quarterback Mike Kruczek from Boston College was next with seven. Others receiving votes included running backs Clark Gaines of the New York Jets and Archie Griffin of Cincinnati, and quarterback Jim Zorn of Seattle.

Sammie White more than took over where John Gilliam left off. Gilliam played out his contract with the Vikings in 1975 and signed with Atlanta. In his last year in Minnesota, Gilliam had 50 receptions for a team-high 777 yards. In his first year in Minnesota, White had 51 receptions for a conferencehigh 906 yards and was selected to the NFC Pro Bowl squad.

Irish Swamp Penn State, 20-9

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Notre Dame's football team closed out the 1976 season by thinking about 1977.

And despite all of Coach Dan Devine's attempts to play it cool whenever next year was mentioned, his players found it difficult to keep from looking ahead to their planned run at the national championship.

"It was good to finish with a win," Devine said following Monday night's 20-9 Gator Bowl victory over Penn State, "and it makes for a good start for next season."

Making for an even better start is the return of 23 regulars, 20 of whom started against Penn State plus three others who were injured along the way.

"It was a great win and it starts us off for next year," said linebacker Steve Heinkreiter, who helped key a stingy defense that doesn't lose a single starter.

Defensive end Ross Browner, winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top lineman, called the game a "morale booster for next year. One of the reasons we came to a bowl this year was to get our young people prepared for next year; to be around a bowl atmosphere. We'll be a young team again, but we'll have a lot of maturity."

The only players Notre Dame must replace are quarterback Rick Slager and split end Dan Kelleher.

"This game will probably project our future for next year," said tight end Ken McAfee, who caught five of Slager's 10 completions for 76 yards.

"I think Michigan and Notre Dame will be the top two teams going into next season," said Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State, which also must be considered a contender with 15 starters returning.

Notre Dame, ranked 15th, wound up with a 9-3 record. Penn State, tied for 20th in the final regular season college football poll, finished 7-5, the most losses since a 5-5 mark in Paterno's initial campaign as head coach a decade ago.

The Nittany Lions took a 3-0 lead on Tony Capozzoli's 26-yard field goal midway through the opening period. It capped a drive from the Penn State 35 to the Notre Dame 10, but that was the only time in the first half the losers advanced beyond their own 32.

Al Hunter, who rushed for 102 yards in 26 carries, scored twice on one-yard runs and Dave Reeve booted a pair of 23-yard field goals as Notre Dame, helped by costly Penn State penalties, piled up a 20-3 halftime bulge and then turned things over to its big-play defense.

Linebackers Doug Becker, Heimkreiter and Bob Golic led the way with 13, 12 and 11 tackles, respectively. Strong safety Jim Browner, Ross' younger brother, knocked down three passes, intercepted one pass in his own end zone and recovered a fumble at the Penn State 23 to set up Reeve's first field goal.

A 65-yard kickoff return by Terry Burick following Penn State's early field goal ignited the Irish offense. A few minutes later, Hunter plowed across the goal line to give the Irish a lead they never surrendered.

Wolverines Grab Top Cage Poll Spot

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It's holiday tournament time for the nation's collegiate basketball teams and the Michigan Wolverines plan to keep on feasting.

The Wolverines once again captured the top spot in The Associated Press collegiate basketball poll, a place they have held from the outset of the season. Michigan received 29 of 39 first-place votes from sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the nation. The Wolverines collected 730 points in the poll on the strength of the 5-0 record they carry into the Providence Tournament tonight. They slaughtered Central Michigan 104-63 in their lone game last week.

Runnerup in the balloting was Notre Dame, which gathered 650 points and six No. 1 selections. The Fighting Irish, 7-0, drubbed Vermont 89-48 in their only action last week to remain ahead of 12-0 San Francisco, which was third in the voting. The Dons, who got 607 points and a pair of No. 1 votes, may have trouble keeping their perfect record intact as they begin play in the tough Rainbow Classic in Hawaii tonight.

Alabama, 8-0, and Cincinnati, 7-0, swapped positions in the poll, with the Crimson Tide taking over the fourth spot after downing Georgetown and South Carolina to win the Carolina Classic. Alabama earned 478 points while idle Cincinnati received 460 and a first-place vote.

Kentucky moved up one place to sixth despite not playing last week. The Wildcats face Notre Dame on Thursday.

Wake Forest, which grabbed one first-place vote, moved from ninth to seventh, followed by No. 8 UCLA, and two of the Deacons' Atlantic Coast Conference rivals, ninth-rated North Carolina and No. 10 Clemson.

No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas will stay home for the holidays. The Rebels will host the Las Vegas Tourney.

No. 12 Marquette, which has dropped from No. 2 in the poll after two 0-1 weeks in a row, also remains at home to play in the Milwaukee Classic, which includes Clemson in its field.

Rounding out the Top 20 are No. 13 Arizona, 14th-ranked Louisville, which faces a strong field that includes No. 20 Auburn in the Louisville Classic, No. 15 Minnesota, which jumped from 20th after upsetting Marquette, 16th-rated Maryland, which entertains No. 18 Syracuse in its holiday tournament, No. 17 Arkansas, and 19th-ranked Utah.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college basketball poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, this season's records and total points. Points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Flyers Top Canucks, 5-1

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Flyers already have played two seasons this National Hockey League campaign. The first 18 games marked a stumbling start for the Philadelphians; the last 18 have been close to perfect.

The Flyers extended their unbeaten string to 18 games Monday night with a 5-1 triumph over the Vancouver Canucks and now find themselves within five games of the 23-game NHL record for success they share with the Boston Bruins.

Philadelphia's last loss came on Nov. 13 and if Monday's performance is any indication, there is no sign of a letup. The Flyers charged to a 4-0 lead on two goals by right wing Reggie Leach, singles by Bobby Clarke and Harvey Bennett, and the superlative goaltending of Bernie Parent.

Parent was sharpest during a stretch of the first period in which he stopped Mike Walton on a breakaway, stole a goal from Chris Oddleifson with a tremendous glove save, and came up with two other quick stops with the Canucks mounting pressure late in the session.

In the other NHL games Monday, Los Angeles downed Detroit 7-4 in a penalty-filled contest, Atlanta blasted Colorado 6-2, and Montreal defeated Cleveland 4-2.

Houston coach Bill Yeoman is enamored of Charles Lunch, his five-foot-seven fullback. "He looks like he has jumped on the back of a small hog when running down the field," says Yeoman.

Pacenta To Quarterback

MIAMI (AP) — Jim Pacenta, vowing to show the nation the real Ohio State football team, will open at quarterback Saturday night for the Buckeyes against Colorado in the Orange Bowl.

The big senior, seldom used in his college career until regular Rod Gerald was hurt in midseason, smiled faintly Monday when told Coach Woody Hayes planned to start him over his sophomore rival.

Vikings Host Tigers In County Cage Tilt

New Year's Eve is still a few days away but the noise and uproar coming from the Teays Valley gym tonight will make it seem like this is the night as the Vikings will host the Circleville Tigers in a county rivalry clash.

The meetings between these two cage squads always provides plenty of action and tonight promises more of the same.

Records can be tossed in the ash heap as the adrenalin flowing in the veins of these cagers can cause anything to happen — And it usually does.

Powerful squads have entered this battle as heavy favorites only to see the "rug pulled out from underneath them" as the underdogs rose up and turned the tables on them.

Both sides will have plenty of rooters so if you want to get a good seat you had better be there early.

"We are looking forward to a hard fought game against an intense rival in another road game," Circleville coach Jim Bailey stated.

The Tigers will be going into the fray with an overall record of 4-2 and would like to get back on the winning track after dropping their last outing to Hillsboro.

Circleville has been averaging 64.5 points per game while limiting the opposition to 57.5 per clash.

Starting for Circleville will be: Frank Merrill, 15.5 points per game average, and Tom Taylor, 6.8, at the guards; Brent Wright, 16.5, at center, Toren Bensonhaver, 14.1, and Tim Milstead, 3.5, at the forwards.

"This is a big ball game for us as it is a county rivalry clash and a win would provide us with a big boost," Teays Valley coach Bob Hoover commented.

Teays Valley is 1-5 overall but has been running into some tough Metro League competition.

The Vikings have been averaging 58.6 points an outing but have given up an average of 76.3 to the opponents.

Teays Valley starting unit will be: Tim Tosca, 13.1 point average, and Terry Trego, 13.5, handling the guard spots; Rick Queen, 8.6, will man the center post with Mike Johnsen, 5.4, and Charlie Morrison, 3.7, working up front.

Maryland Tourney Scheduled Tonight

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Roosevelt Bouie, a 6-foot-11 freshman with a broken right hand, remained a question mark for Syracuse today as the Maryland Invitational Basketball Tournament got underway.

Orange coach Jim Boeheim said after arriving here Monday that he hoped to have Bouie fitted with a smaller cast so he can shoot.

Bouie, who has blocked 25 shots while averaging 9.9 per game, broke a bone in his hand against Canisius College Dec. 11. He played in Syracuse's 101-63 victory over Penn State two days later but did very little.

Sugar Bowl Contest Has Personal Angle

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Joe Terenshinski wants to close his career as the starting center on Georgia's football team the same way he started it — having a good game against Pittsburgh's Al Romano.

Romano is Pittsburgh's All-American nose guard. He and Terenshinksi square off Saturday in the Sugar Bowl game.

"Al combines good size (6-foot-3, 225-pounds) with the quickness of a smaller guard," said Terenshinski. "I'd say his outstanding attribute is his speed."

And despite all of Coach Dan Devine's attempts to play it cool whenever next year was mentioned, his players found it difficult to keep from looking ahead to their planned run at the national championship.

"It was good to finish with a win," Devine said following Monday night's 20-9 Gator Bowl victory over Penn State, "and it makes for a good start for next season."

Making for an even better start is the return of 23 regulars, 20 of whom started against Penn State plus three others who were injured along the way.

"It was a great win and it starts us off for next year," said linebacker Steve Heinkreiter, who helped key a stingy defense that doesn't lose a single starter.

Defensive end Ross Browner, winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top lineman, called the game a "morale booster for next year. One of the reasons we came to a bowl this year was to get our young people prepared for next year; to be around a bowl atmosphere. We'll be a young team again, but we'll have a lot of maturity."

The only players Notre Dame must replace are quarterback Rick Slager and split end Dan Kelleher.

"This game will probably project our future for next year," said tight end Ken McAfee, who caught five of Slager's 10 completions for 76 yards.

"I think Michigan and Notre Dame will be the top two teams going into next season," said Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State, which also must be considered a contender with 15 starters returning.

Notre Dame, ranked 15th, wound up with a 9-3 record. Penn State, tied for 20th in the final regular season college football poll, finished 7-5, the most losses since a 5-5 mark in Paterno's initial campaign as head coach a decade ago.

The Nittany Lions took a 3-0 lead on Tony Capozzoli's 26-yard field goal midway through the opening period. It capped a drive from the Penn State 35 to the Notre Dame 10, but that was the only time in the first half the losers advanced beyond their own 32.

Al Hunter, who rushed for 102 yards in 26 carries, scored twice on one-yard runs and Dave Reeve booted a pair of 23-yard field goals as Notre Dame, helped by costly Penn State penalties, piled up a 20-3 halftime bulge and then turned things over to its big-play defense.

Linebackers Doug Becker, Heimkreiter and Bob Golic led the way with 13, 12 and 11 tackles, respectively. Strong safety Jim Browner, Ross' younger brother, knocked down three passes, intercepted one pass in his own end zone and recovered a fumble at the Penn State 23 to set up Reeve's first field goal.

A 65-yard kickoff return by Terry Burick following Penn State's early field goal ignited the Irish offense. A few minutes later, Hunter plowed across the goal line to give the Irish a lead they never surrendered.

Wolverines Grab Top Cage Poll Spot

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It's holiday tournament time for the nation's collegiate basketball teams and the Michigan Wolverines plan to keep on feasting.

The Wolverines once again captured the top spot in The Associated Press collegiate basketball poll, a place they have held from the outset of the season. Michigan received 29 of 39 first-place votes from sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the nation. The Wolverines collected 730 points in the poll on the strength of the 5-0 record they carry into the Providence Tournament tonight. They slaughtered Central Michigan 104-63 in their lone game last week.

Runnerup in the balloting was Notre Dame, which gathered 650 points and six No. 1 selections. The Fighting Irish, 7-0, drubbed Vermont 89-48 in their only action last week to remain ahead of 12-0 San Francisco, which was third in the voting. The Dons, who got 607 points and a pair of No. 1 votes, may have trouble keeping their perfect record intact as they begin play in the tough Rainbow Classic in Hawaii tonight.

Alabama, 8-0, and Cincinnati, 7-0, swapped positions in the poll, with the Crimson Tide taking over the fourth spot after downing Georgetown and South Carolina to win the Carolina Classic. Alabama earned 478 points while idle Cincinnati received 460 and a first-place vote.

Kentucky moved up one place to sixth despite not playing last week. The Wildcats face Notre Dame on Thursday.

Wake Forest, which grabbed one first-place vote, moved from ninth to seventh, followed by No. 8 UCLA, and two of the Deacons' Atlantic Coast Conference rivals, ninth-rated North Carolina and No. 10 Clemson.

No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas will stay home for the holidays. The Rebels will host the Las Vegas Tourney.

No. 12 Marquette, which has dropped from No. 2 in the poll after two 0-1 weeks in a row, also remains at home to play in the Milwaukee Classic, which includes Clemson in its field.

Rounding out the Top 20 are No. 13 Arizona, 14th-ranked Louisville, which faces a strong field that includes No. 20 Auburn in the Louisville Classic, No. 15 Minnesota, which jumped from 20th after upsetting Marquette, 16th-rated Maryland, which entertains No. 18 Syracuse in its holiday tournament, No. 17 Arkansas, and 19th-ranked Utah.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college basketball poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, this season's records and total points. Points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

1.Michigan (29)	5-0	730
2.Notre Dame (6)	7-0	650
3.San Fran (2)	12-0	607
4.Alabama	8-0	478
5.Cincinnati (1)	7-0	460
6.Kentucky	6-1	337
7.Wake Forest (1)	7-0	293
8.UCLA	7-1	285
9.N. Carolina	5-1	219
10.Clemson	8-0	203

15.Minnesota	7-0	98
16.Maryland	7-1	70
17.Arkansas	8-0	56
18.Syracuse	7-1	32
19.Utah	6-3	26
20.Auburn	5-0	17

Flyers Top Canucks, 5-1

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Flyers already have played two seasons this National Hockey League campaign. The first 18 games marked a stumbling start for the Philadelphians; the last 18 have been close to perfect.

The Flyers extended their unbeaten string to 18 games Monday night with a 5-1 triumph over the Vancouver Canucks and now find themselves within five games of the 23-game NHL record for success they share with the Boston Bruins.

Philadelphia's last loss came on Nov. 13 and if Monday's performance is any indication, there is no sign of a letup. The Flyers charged to a 4-0 lead on two goals by right wing Reggie Leach, singles by Bobby Clarke and Harvey Bennett, and the superlative goaltending of Bernie Parent.

Parent was sharpest during a stretch of the first period in which he stopped Mike Walton on a breakaway, stole a goal from Chris Oddleifson with a tremendous glove save, and came up with two other quick stops with the Canucks mounting pressure late in the session.

In the other NHL games Monday, Los Angeles downed Detroit 7-4 in a penalty-filled contest, Atlanta blasted Colorado 6-2, and Montreal defeated Cleveland 4-2.

Houston coach Bill Yeoman is enamored of Charles Lunch, his five-foot-seven fullback. "He looks like he has jumped on the back of a small hog when running down the field," says Yeoman.

Pacenta To Quarterback

MIAMI (AP) — Jim Pacenta, vowing to show the nation the real Ohio State football team, will open at quarterback Saturday night for the Buckeyes against Colorado in the Orange Bowl.

The big senior, seldom used in his college career until regular Rod Gerald was hurt in midseason, smiled faintly Monday when told Coach Woody Hayes planned to start him over his sophomore rival.

Real Estate

SPEAKMAN REALTY

WHAT GOES WITH HOUSE?

Real estate is usually defined as the land and everything attached to it, such as: buildings, trees, shrubs, etc. The buyer normally gets all of the real estate, but none of the owner's personal property. The problem arises when personal property has become a part of the real estate. This is called a fixture and does pass with the real estate.

There are three usual test which must be satisfied. Has the personal property been permanently annexed to the real estate? Is it intended to become part of the real estate? And finally, what is the local custom? Usual fixtures might include: shades, heaters, ranges, screens, storm windows, lighting fixtures, etc.

It is important that the seller spell out specifically in his sales agreement exactly what he intends to give to the buyer as part of real estate. This will save misunderstanding at the closing, and sometimes save a sale.

State Crime Moves To Suburbs

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer

Families in Ohio watched as residential neighborhoods became the scenes of murders in 1976.

The bodies of 1-year-old Laurie Jo Davies and her 2-year-old sister Christine were found in November stuffed in plastic bags which had been placed in trash barrels at two parks about a mile from each other.

A four-day search resulted in the discovery of the final Davies child, 4-year-old Tonya, in a Delaware County field.

Their 20-year-old mother, Margo Davies of Worthington, was charged with the killings.

She pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to three charges of aggravated murder and was ordered held in Marion County jail until her trial Jan. 17 in an adjacent county.

Crime was not isolated in neighborhoods. Ninety individuals were indicted in Cuyahoga County for phony claims to the state Bureau of Workmen's Compensation. Nine have pleaded guilty on fraud-related charges and are awaiting sentencing. The rest pleaded innocent.

Gov. James A. Rhodes called the phony claims scheme the "greatest scandal in history."

In another neighborhood, Patricia Bolin was described as the mother of an "ideal" suburban Columbus family.

According to police, she bought a pistol in October and hid it in her sewing basket. Then on Dec. 8 the 40-year-old woman took the .22 caliber gun from the kit and shot to death her husband and two of her three children before shooting herself to death, police said.

Police said they were called to a home in the suburb of Upper Arlington after Mrs. Bolin's 15-year-old daughter fled from the house.

In Cleveland, neighbors were shaken after hearing of the death of Karen Kollar. Many of their children had played with the 8-year-old girl.

She was beaten to death with stones and bricks after her attackers failed to kill her by throwing her from a three-story window.

Police who found the girl's body said that three persons tied and gagged the girl and left her inside a building for three hours, apparently trying to scare her. She worked off the gag and screamed, but no help came. Neighbors told later of having heard the screams.

Her tormenters returned, tricked her into peering over the edge of a roof and pushed her off, police said. She fell to a metal canopy over the rails, and one of her assailants crawled out and pushed her off again, officials said.

She survived that, too. But then she was beaten to death, according to police.

In 1975, another 8-year-old was raped, stabbed and strangled in the area, while in 1973 an 18-year-old girl was murdered after being kidnaped near her home.

"My God, it's a rough world for the kids now," said one resident. "They ain't got much of a chance in a place like this."

Massive Retaliation Making Comeback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The advent of Dr. Harold Brown as defense secretary probably means that massive retaliation again will become the dominant U.S. plan for deterring a Soviet nuclear attack.

Under this concept of "mutually assured destruction," both superpowers are afraid to attack because each has enough protected strategic nuclear weapons to ride out a surprise blow and to devastate the attacker's cities in return.

This long was the pre-eminent concept in U.S. deterrence doctrine. But former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger pushed to the front nearly three years ago a different option called "flexible response," and that policy was retained by his successor, Donald Rumsfeld.

Brown, a senior Pentagon official for eight years in the 1960s, has shown in the past that he disagrees with Schlesinger's approach and that he believes "assured destruction" is the surest policy for discouraging Soviet attack.

Schlesinger changed U.S. targeting doctrine to emphasize a capability for selective, relatively small-scale nuclear retaliatory strikes at Soviet military and military-related targets.

He argued that this would give the United States flexibility to reply to possible limited Soviet nuclear strikes on U.S. military forces, or to overwhelming conventional aggression against U.S. allies in Europe, without launching massive attacks on Soviet cities.

Schlesinger contended this flexibility — and Soviet awareness that the United States was prepared to resort to it — would reduce the danger of nuclear conflict.

"The aim of this modification of policy is to make lower level nuclear conflicts as well as conflicts involving the large-scale destruction of cities even less likely," Schlesinger wrote Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., in early 1974.

Brown's disagreement with the emphasis on a "flexible response" policy was expressed in a talk he made last year before the Soviet Academy of Sciences in Moscow.

Brown said contingency planning for possible strategic nuclear strikes against military targets "ought to be severely limited" because it may erode deterrence and thus "increase the likelihood of catastrophe."

Brown said no one should be "deceived into thinking that the existence of forces, options and plans for a strategic countermilitary exchange makes survival of either the United States or the U.S.S.R. in a nuclear war at all likely."

This suggests the future of some new weapons developments pushed by Schlesinger, including more accurate and more powerful warheads for U.S. land-based intercontinental missiles, may be in doubt.

Schlesinger will be in the new cabinet, but as energy czar.

Ford Believes Unity Top Achievement

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford says his greatest contribution while in office was reuniting a divided country, while his greatest disappointments were his inability to turn the economy around as "effectively as I hoped" and failure to obtain a second strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union.

Ford also said President-elect Carter will soon find that promises he made in the heat of the presidential campaign are going to be hard to keep once he enters the Oval Office.

Concerning campaign promises of his own, Ford said he still intends to ask the new Congress, which meets Jan. 4, for a tax cut that will consist of "increasing personal exemptions and reducing corporate rates."

The President made his observations during an interview with ABC newsman Barbara Walters. The text of the interview, taped with the President and Mrs. Ford in the White House before they left for a Vail, Colo., vacation, was released Sunday. ABC will air the discussion Sunday, Jan. 2.

Recalling August 9, 1974, when he took over the presidency from Richard M. Nixon, Ford said, "People were angry with one another, there was a divisiveness among our people, there was distrust of people for their government and Washington, as an institution, I think, was in great disrepute.

"So the last two and a half years, I feel, has changed the whole atmosphere very significantly."

The President also again defended his decision to pardon Nixon while admitting that the action had an "adverse impact" on his chances in the election.

Aside from the pardon, Ford said the most difficult decision that confronted him during his administration was ordering the operation to rescue American merchent seamen in the Mayaguez incident and that one of the most difficult tasks was to gain Israeli and Egyptian consent to the Sinai II agreement.

Ford characterized some statements made by Carter during the presidential campaign as "purely political comment" whose meaning would become "significantly different" in the reality of being in the White House.

"I think he is going to find that you can't turn a switch and automatically increase employment and decrease unemployment; he can't, by the waving of a wand, eliminate a deficit even over a period of time," the outgoing president said.

Pope Issues Call For Family Life

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI says the Roman Catholic church must devote itself to preserving the Christian family.

The Pope told a crowd gathered Sunday under his studio window, "We renovate our best wishes and blessings to Christian families ... with the intention of defending them from so many calamities which these days threatened their unity, stability, fecundity, educative function, its spirit of unity and intimate and loving peace."

The Pope apparently was referring to divorce, abortion and contraceptives, all forbidden by the church.

The pontiff said the family institution is "an ideal and superlative thing." Sunday was the Feast of the Holy Family, honoring Mary, St. Joseph and the infant Jesus.

Rare Thai Jar

NEW YORK (AP) — A rare, 15th-century Thai stoneware jar is part of an exhibition of Southeast Asian Ceramics on display at the Asia House Gallery here.

The jar, decorated with motifs of both Indian and Chinese origin, was brought to the United States from Wat Srikomkan, a temple in northern Thailand where it had been buried for some time.

The exhibit will also travel to the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Honolulu Academy of Arts and the St. Louis Art Museum in 1977.

Real Estate
By Realtor JANE S. STEWART
SPEAKMAN REALTY

WHAT GOES WITH HOUSE?

Real estate is usually defined as the land and everything attached to it, such as: buildings, trees, shrubs, etc. The buyer normally gets all of the real estate, but none of the owner's personal property. The problem arises when personal property has become a part of the real estate. This is called a fixture and does pass with the real estate.

There are three usual test which must be satisfied. Has the personal property been permanently annexed to the real estate? Is it intended to become part of the real estate? And finally, what is the local custom? Usual fixtures might include: shades, heaters, ranges, screens, storm windows, lighting fixtures, etc.

It is important that the seller spell out specifically in his sales agreement exactly what he intends to give to the buyer as part of real estate. This will save misunderstanding at the closing, and sometimes save a sale.

Families in Ohio watched as residential neighborhoods became the scenes of murders in 1976.

The bodies of 1-year-old Laurie Jo Davies and her 2-year-old sister Christine were found in November stuffed in plastic bags which had been placed in trash barrels at two parks about a mile from each other.

A four-day search resulted in the discovery of the final Davies child, 4-year-old Tonya, in a Delaware County field.

Their 20-year-old mother, Margo Davies of Worthington, was charged with the killings.

She pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to three charges of aggravated murder and was ordered held in Marion County jail until her trial Jan. 17 in an adjacent county.

Crime was not isolated in neighborhoods. Ninety individuals were indicted in Cuyahoga County for phony claims to the state Bureau of Workmen's Compensation. Nine have pleaded guilty on fraud-related charges and are awaiting sentencing. The rest pleaded innocent.

Gov. James A. Rhodes called the phony claims scheme the "greatest scandal in history."

In another neighborhood, Patricia Bolin was described as the mother of an "ideal" suburban Columbus family.

According to police, she bought a pistol in October and hid it in her sewing basket. Then on Dec. 8 the 40-year-old woman took the .22 caliber gun from the kit and shot to death her husband and two of her three children before shooting herself to death, police said.

Police said they were called to a home in the suburb of Upper Arlington after Mrs. Bolin's 15-year-old daughter fled from the house.

In Cleveland, neighbors were shaken after hearing of the death of Karen Kollar. Many of their children had played with the 8-year-old girl.

She was beaten to death with stones and bricks after her attackers failed to kill her by throwing her from a three-story window.

Police who found the girl's body said that three persons tied and gagged the girl and left her inside a building for three hours, apparently trying to scare her. She worked off the gag and screamed, but no help came. Neighbors told later of having heard the screams.

Her tormenters returned, tricked her into peering over the edge of a roof and pushed her off, police said. She fell to a metal canopy over the rails, and one of her assailants crawled out and pushed her off again, officials said.

She survived that, too. But then she was beaten to death, according to police.

In 1975, another 8-year-old was raped, stabbed and strangled in the area, while in 1973 an 18-year-old girl was murdered after being kidnaped near her home.

"My God, it's a rough world for the kids now," said one resident. "They ain't got much of a chance in a place like this."

Massive Retaliation Making Comeback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The advent of Dr. Harold Brown as defense secretary probably means that massive retaliation again will become the dominant U.S. plan for deterring a Soviet nuclear attack.

Under this concept of "mutually assured destruction," both superpowers are afraid to attack because each has enough protected strategic nuclear weapons to ride out a surprise blow and to devastate the attacker's cities in return.

This long was the pre-eminent concept in U.S. deterrence doctrine. But former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger pushed to the front nearly three years ago a different option called "flexible response," and that policy was retained by his successor, Donald Rumsfeld.

Brown, a senior Pentagon official for eight years in the 1960s, has shown in the past that he disagrees with Schlesinger's approach and that he believes "assured destruction" is the surest policy for discouraging Soviet attack.

Schlesinger changed U.S. targeting doctrine to emphasize a capability for selective, relatively small-scale nuclear retaliatory strikes at Soviet military and military-related targets.

He argued that this would give the United States flexibility to reply to possible limited Soviet nuclear strikes on U.S. military forces, or to overwhelming conventional aggression against U.S. allies in Europe, without launching massive attacks on Soviet cities.

Schlesinger contended this flexibility — and Soviet awareness that the United States was prepared to resort to it — would reduce the danger of nuclear conflict.

"The aim of this modification of policy is to make lower level nuclear conflicts as well as conflicts involving the large-scale destruction of cities even less likely," Schlesinger wrote Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., in early 1974.

Brown's disagreement with the emphasis on a "flexible response" policy was expressed in a talk he made last year before the Soviet Academy of Sciences in Moscow.

Brown said contingency planning for possible strategic nuclear strikes against military targets "ought to be severely limited" because it may erode deterrence and thus "increase the likelihood of catastrophe."

Brown said no one should be "deceived into thinking that the existence of forces, options and plans for a strategic countermilitary exchange makes survival of either the United States or the U.S.S.R. in a nuclear war at all likely."

This suggests the future of some new weapons developments pushed by Schlesinger, including more accurate and more powerful warheads for U.S. land-based intercontinental missiles, may be in doubt.

Schlesinger will be in the new cabinet, but as energy czar.

Ford Believes Unity Top Achievement

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford says his greatest contribution while in office was reuniting a divided country, while his greatest disappointments were his inability to turn the economy around as "effectively as I hoped" and failure to obtain a second strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union.

Ford also said President-elect Carter will soon find that promises he made in the heat of the presidential campaign are going to be hard to keep once he enters the Oval Office.

Concerning campaign promises of his own, Ford said he still intends to ask the new Congress, which meets Jan. 4, for a tax cut that will consist of "increasing personal exemptions and reducing corporate rates."

The President made his observations during an interview with ABC newsman Barbara Walters. The text of the interview, taped with the President and Mrs. Ford in the White House before they left for a Vail, Colo., vacation, was released Sunday. ABC will air the discussion Sunday, Jan. 2.

Recalling August 9, 1974, when he took over the presidency from Richard M. Nixon, Ford said, "People were angry with one another, there was a divisiveness among our people, there was distrust of people for their government and Washington, as an institution, I think, was in great disrepute.

"So the last two and a half years, I feel, has changed the whole atmosphere very significantly."

The President also again defended his decision to pardon Nixon while admitting that the action had an "adverse impact" on his chances in the election.

Aside from the pardon, Ford said the most difficult decision that confronted him during his administration was ordering the operation to rescue American merchent seamen in the Mayaguez incident and that one of the most difficult tasks was to gain Israeli and Egyptian consent to the Sinai II agreement.

Ford characterized some statements made by Carter during the presidential campaign as "purely political comment" whose meaning would become "significantly different" in the reality of being in the White House.

"I think he is going to find that you can't turn a switch and automatically increase employment and decrease unemployment; he can't, by the wave of a wand, eliminate a deficit even over a period of time," the outgoing president said.

Pope Issues Call For Family Life

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI says the Roman Catholic church must devote itself to preserving the Christian family.

The Pope told a crowd gathered Sunday under his studio window, "We renovate our best wishes and blessings to Christian families ... with the intention of defending them from so many calamities which these days threatened their unity, stability, fecundity, educative function, its spirit of unity and intimate and loving peace."

The Pope apparently was referring to divorce, abortion and contraceptives, all forbidden by the church.

The pontiff said the family institution is "an ideal and superlative thing." Sunday was the Feast of the Holy Family, honoring Mary, St. Joseph and the infant Jesus.

Rare Thai Jar

NEW YORK (AP) — A rare, 15th-century Thai stoneware jar is part of an exhibition of Southeast Asian Ceramics on display at the Asia House Gallery here.

The jar, decorated with motifs of both Indian and Chinese origin, was brought to the United States from Wat Srikomkan, a temple in northern Thailand where it has been housed for some time.

The exhibit will also travel to the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Honolulu Academy of Arts and the St. Louis Art Museum in 1977.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You will face competition now, but it won't stymie you. Rather, it will prove a pleasing challenge. Get in there - and win!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A problem now may be in handling activities smoothly, without ruffling tempers or leaving yourself open to misinterpretation. But forewarned is forearmed!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Fine Mercury influences continue. Fervor and ambition should mark the day. Especially favored: aviation interests, written matters, communications generally.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Some complications indicated in personal and money matters. Don't let pride keep you from consulting others as to how to cope.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Break your day down to definite essentials and eliminate the unimportant. Do not engage in untried ventures except where "dry runs" seem feasible.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Differences of opinion need not result in rifts. Get together with those concerned and, with calmness and your innate sense of humor, iron things out.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Aspects are not entirely friendly, but instinctively you should be able to adjust. Compare all offerings discerningly. Weigh opinions, decisions carefully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You may face some resistance, blockades to progress that you did not anticipate; but you can find ways to skirt them. Use your keen perception and will power.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): It may be difficult for you to put over your ideas and opinions but, in discussions, do not be fanatical and, certainly, start no disconcerting arguments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Merely "minding the store" will not be enough now; you must pay closer attention to trends, study the attitudes of others and don't make promises you can't keep.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Better than average planetary aspects but your set-up calls for more reviewing, reconstruction. Keep things in proper focus.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Great activity indicated in your area - which should prove highly stimulating. Especially favored: maritime interest, community projects, cultural activities.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a good mind, a delightful personality and great versatility. You have less faith in yourself than you should under the circumstances. Usually, your trouble stems from the fact that you tend to live within yourself, to brood and underestimate your capabilities. Bolstering your self-confidence may be practically a lifetime job for you but keep at it since, once having achieved this faith, there is nothing to stand in the way of your accomplishment. Your talents are many and you could succeed in the fields of literature, science, the law, statesmanship or diplomacy. Develop your appreciation of the arts, if only as a hobby, as an outlet for your deep emotions. Birthdate of: Andrew Johnson, 17th Pres., U.S.A.; William E. Gladstone, British statesman.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This has been a good year for Judith Cohen. We pause now as everyone says, "Who?" They'll learn who if they tune in the Jan. 19 premiere of CBS' new comedy, "A Year at the Top."

The Norman Lear series concerns an aged quartet of vaudevillians who give their souls to the devil in return for a year of youth, a year of success as a music group in today's pop music world.

Miss Cohen, a Baltimore, Md., native with but four years of professional performing logged, was signed this year to play the mod version of one of the old troupers, played by Vivian Blaine.

"It's kind of wonderful," the young singer-actress said in a soft, husky voice. "It's like a dream that this could really happen. But it can. It truly can."

Things commenced happening this year, she said, when CBS casting director Pat Kirkland watched her work as a singer at a new-talent club called Reno Sweeney's in the hamlet called New York.

She said Kirkland urged Lear to consider her for a part. She originally was to be considered for the role of Bernadette Peters' roomate in CBS' "All's Fair." But when Lear came to Gotham, she was leaving for a gig in Florida. She said the rest happened this way:

He asked her when she'd be working again at the New York club. She told him. He said he'd try to be there opening night. He was. A week later, he signed her for a guest shot on "Good Times," she said.

After that came one of the lead roles in "A Year at the Top."

All of which is quite a leap forward for the red-haired Miss Cohen, who put in a year at Towson College in Maryland, then dropped out to study acting and to act and sing in Fun City.

She began as a professional when she auditioned for a part in an off-Broadway improvisational play, "The Proposition."

"It was the first thing I'd ever tried out for, and I was very lucky," she said. Meaning she got the job her first time out.

Nine months later, she landed a part in another off-Broadway show called "42 Seconds From Broadway." It expired immediately. How'd she feel about that setback?

"To be honest, I'd never done Equity (plays requiring union actors, union pay) or anything like that before," she said. "So it was an incredible working experience for me. I loved it.

"If something ends abruptly like that, you don't give up. So I just went on."

While seeking other acting jobs, she also launched her singing career, backed by a quartet consisting of piano, bass, drums and cello. She drew favorable reviews for her work at Reno Sweeney's.

To sing in clubs, one ususally needs music arrangements. Which cost some bucks. But Judith Cohen, a self-described Lucky lady, was lucky even in this regard.

"Oh, I didn't have to pay for any arrangements," she laughed. "My musicians just believed in me. And whatever we made, we divided."

The British Parliament abolished slavery in the British Empire in 1833.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You will face competition now, but it won't stymie you. Rather, it will prove a pleasing challenge. Get in there - and win!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A problem now may be in handling activities smoothly, without ruffling tempers or leaving yourself open to misinterpretation. But forewarned is forearmed!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Fine Mercury influences continue. Fervor and ambition should mark the day. Especially favored: aviation interests, written matters, communications generally.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Some complications indicated in personal and money matters. Don't let pride keep you from consulting others as to how to cope.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Break your day down to definite essentials and eliminate the unimportant. Do not engage in untried ventures except where "dry runs" seem feasible.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Differences of opinion need not result in rifts. Get together with those concerned and, with calmness and your innate sense of humor, iron things out.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Aspects are not entirely friendly, but instinctively you should be able to adjust. Compare all offerings discerningly. Weigh opinions, decisions carefully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You may face some resistance, blockades to progress that you did not anticipate; but you can find ways to skirt them. Use your keen perception and will power.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): It may be difficult for you to put over your ideas and opinions but, in discussions, do not be fanatical and, certainly, start no disconcerting arguments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Merely "minding the store" will not be enough now; you must pay closer attention to trends, study the attitudes of others and don't make promises you can't keep.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Better than average planetary aspects but your set-up calls for more reviewing, reconstruction. Keep things in proper focus.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Great activity indicated in your area - which should prove highly stimulating. Especially favored: maritime interest, community projects, cultural activities.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a good mind, a delightful personality and great versatility. You have less faith in yourself than you should under the circumstances. Usually, your trouble stems from the fact that you tend to live within yourself, to brood and underestimate your capabilities. Bolstering your self-confidence may be practically a lifetime job for you but keep at it since, once having achieved this faith, there is nothing to stand in the way of your accomplishment. Your talents are many and you could succeed in the fields of literature, science, the law, statesmanship or diplomacy. Develop your appreciation of the arts, if only as a hobby, as an outlet for your deep emotions. Birthdate of: Andrew Johnson, 17th Pres., U.S.A.; William E. Gladstone, British statesman.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This has been a good year for Judith Cohen. We pause now as everyone says, "Who?" They'll learn who if they tune in the Jan. 19 premiere of CBS' new comedy, "A Year at the Top."

The Norman Lear series concerns an aged quartet of vaudevillians who give their souls to the devil in return for a year of youth, a year of success as a music group in today's pop music world.

Miss Cohen, a Baltimore, Md., native with but four years of professional performing logged, was signed this year to play the mod version of one of the old troupers, played by Vivian Blaine.

"It's kind of wonderful," the young singer-actress said in a soft, husky voice. "It's like a dream that this could really happen. But it can. It truly can."

Things commenced happening this year, she said, when CBS casting director Pat Kirkland watched her work as a singer at a new-talent club called Reno Sweeney's in the hamlet called New York.

She said Kirkland urged Lear to consider her for a part. She originally was to be considered for the role of Bernadette Peters' roomate in CBS' "All's Fair." But when Lear came to Gotham, she was leaving for a gig in Florida. She said the rest happened this way:

He asked her when she'd be working again at the New York club. She told him. He said he'd try to be there opening night. He was. A week later, he signed her for a guest shot on "Good Times," she said.

After that came one of the lead roles in "A Year at the Top."

All of which is quite a leap forward for the red-haired Miss Cohen, who put in a year at Towson College in Maryland, then dropped out to study acting and to act and sing in Fun City.

She began as a professional when she auditioned for a part in an off-Broadway improvisational play, "The Proposition."

"It was the first thing I'd ever tried out for, and I was very lucky," she said. Meaning she got the job her first time out.

Nine months later, she landed a part in another off-Broadway show called "42 Seconds From Broadway." It expired immediately. How'd she feel about that setback?

"To be honest, I'd never done Equity (plays requiring union actors, union pay) or anything like that before," she said. "So it was an incredible working experience for me. I loved it.

"If something ends abruptly like that, you don't give up. So I just went on."

While seeking other acting jobs, she also launched her singing career, backed by a quartet consisting of piano, bass, drums and cello. She drew favorable reviews for her work at Reno Sweeney's.

To sing in clubs, one ususally needs music arrangements. Which cost some bucks. But Judith Cohen, a self-described Lucky lady, was lucky even in this regard.

"Oh, I didn't have to pay for any arrangements," she laughed. "My musicians just believed in me. And whatever we made, we divided."

The British Parliament abolished slavery in the British Empire in 1833.

South African Riot Leaves 24 Slain

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Police reinforcements were airlifted to Cape Town today to patrol black townships where militants and migrant workers have fought each other in bloody street battles for three days.

Police reportedly shot and killed two blacks in Langa township during the night when a stone-throwing crowd of 500 persons attacked their patrol vehicles. Twenty-four persons were killed in weekend rioting in Guguletu and Nyanga townships.

The fighting and widespread arson first erupted Christmas night because the migrant workers, mostly Baca tribesmen from the newly independent Transkei district, had resisted the militants' call for a holiday boycott of shopping and celebrations.

Black youths attacked bachelor hostels where the migrant workers live and the workers retaliated by burning the homes of the militants, police said.

At least 106 persons were injured, many in hand-to-hand fighting between the two groups. Police opened fire several times during the rioting, but it was not known how many of the casualties were hit by the gunfire.

With fresh police units being flown in from the capital of Pretoria today, authorities said order generally had been restored to the townships. The violence began to ebb late Monday night and early today after senior police officers brought together leaders of the opposing factions in an effort to end the clashes.

An estimated 5,000 residents fled Nyanga, which bore the brunt of the rioting, on Monday. The refugees pushed overloaded carts and rode on cars and trucks carrying their furniture and other belongings. Some houses in the abandoned districts were later set afire.

A spokesman for the Bantu Administration Board, the government agency responsible for black affairs, said 81 houses, five small hostels and 14 vehicles had been detroyed by fire.

The latest deaths brought to at least 395 the unofficial death toll in six months of racial violence in South Africa. Almost all were nonwhites and most were killed by police gunfire.

Nyanga and Guguletu had been tense since early December, when two persons were reported killed in fighting between militants and migrant workers over an attempt to mobilize workers for a general strike.

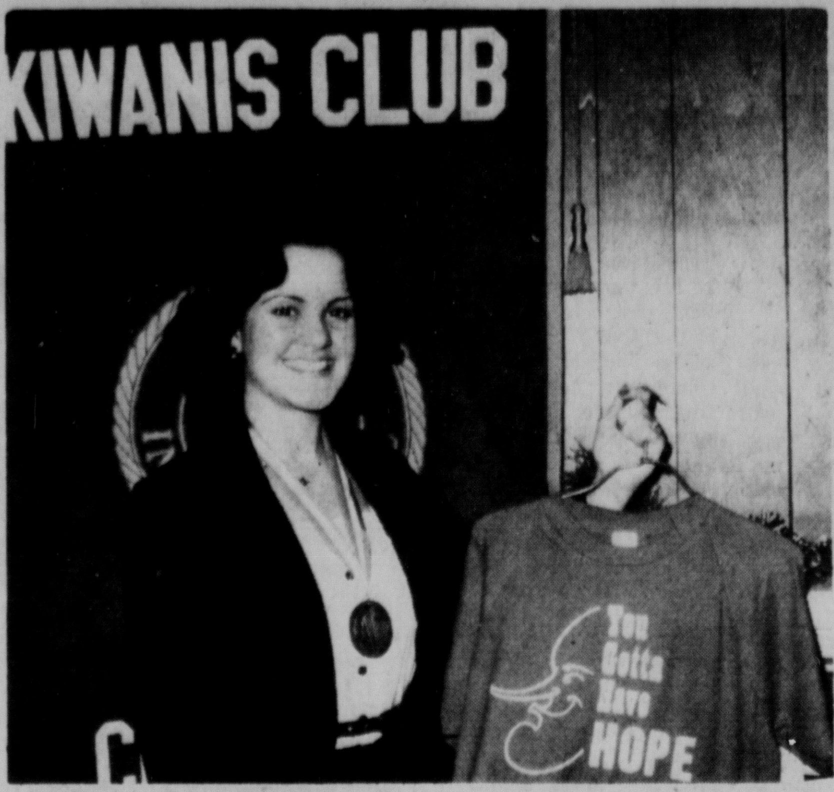
Free Coffee On Turnpike

Allan V. Johnson, Executive Director of the Ohio Turnpike Commission, today appealed to drivers to make the remainder of 1976 and the New Year's holiday safe on the Turnpike and all other highways.

"There has not been a fatality on the Turnpike in more than 45 days including Thanksgiving and their has never been a fatal accident on the Ohio Turnpike during a New Year's holiday period," Johnson said. "If drivers exercise care once again, this will be the 22nd such period.

"The Ohio State Highway Patrol will be at full strength throughout the holiday periods and Turnpike maintenance forces will be on the job as necessary to keep the road clear and safe," he continued.

"As a service to all travellers and to promote safety on the Ohio Turnpike, the Howard Johnson Company and Gladieux Food Service, Inc., which operate the Turnpike restaurants for the Commission, will serve free coffee from 10 p.m. Friday, New Year's Eve, until 7 a.m. Saturday, New Year's Day, at all 16 restaurants at the service plazas. It is hoped by the Commission that this favor by the operators will induce a rest stop by those travellers who need to offset any drowsiness caused by late hours," Johnson concluded.



KIWANIS SPEAKER — Kelly Spence, a Circleville High School senior who represented Columbus in the Miss Teenage America Pageant in Tulsa, Okla., was the guest at the Monday Ladies' Night meeting of the Circleville Kiwanis Club. Miss Spence related her experiences at the pageant, and described a television appearance with Bob Hope on Nov. 27.

Four People Injured In Monday Accidents

Four people were injured in three auto accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies Monday afternoon.

Two passengers in a car driven by Kimberly S. Finch, 19, 18393 Five Points Pike, were referred to a doctor for treatment of minor injuries they suffered in a 1:30 p.m. accident on the Five Points Pike.

Amy M. Finch, 8, complained of a bump on the head following the crash, and Carolyn M. Finch suffered right elbow injuries.

Ms. Finch told Deputy Sheriff Bill Carmean that she was driving on the Five Points Pike, two-tenths of a mile northwest of Blain Road, when her car skidded on the snow.

The vehicle spun in a circle and traveled backwards into a fence owned by Georgia Dick, Mt. Sterling.

A post and 32 feet of fencing were damaged.

Steven J. Clapper, 22, 136 W. Mill St., was referred to a doctor for treatment of minor injuries he suffered in a 2:43 p.m. accident on Hagerty Road.

Clapper suffered a back injury, according to Deputy Sheriff Nick Franklin.

According to the report, Clapper was driving west on Hagerty Road, four-tenths of a mile west of the Ringgold-Northern Road, when he lost control on a patch of ice while attempting to make a right turn into a private driveway.

The car drove off the north side, sideswiped a metal rail along a culvert, and crashed nose-down into the culvert.

One person suffered minor injuries when two cars collided on Route 23 near the RCA plant entrance 4 p.m.

Beatrice A. Kuhner, 52, Oak Hill, a passenger in a car driven by Marc A. Kuhner, 24, Route 8, Charlottesville, Va., was referred to a doctor for treatment of back and shoulder injuries.

Tony A. Spaulding, 9, Route 1, Coal Grove, another passenger in the Kuhner vehicle, was not hurt.

Driver of the other car involved was Roy C. Massie, 34, 23564 Bolender Pontious Road.

Both cars were northbound on Route 23, according to Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal, when an apparent malfunction caused Massie's car to drive left of center and into the right side of the Kuhner vehicle, which traveled 234 feet out of control after impact.

Ashville EFSL Plans Opening

Equitable Federal Savings and Loan Association is planning a Grand Opening celebration for its new Ashville Office starting Wednesday and running through January 31, according to Michelle Little, Ashville Branch Manager.

The month-long festivities include registration without obligation for over $1,000 worth of door prizes. The prizes include a microwave oven, and a portable dishwasher.

The Association will also offer Gifts for Saving during Grand Opening Month. Qualifing deposits will entitle the customer to one of four gifts made by Anchor Hocking Corporation.

The door prizes and Gifts for Savings are all on display at Equitable's Ashville Office, 14265 Ashville Pike.

The office is open every Monday for the convenience of area residents.

Amtrak Says Derailments Bum Rap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak, with six well-publicized derailments since mid-November, thinks it's been getting a bum rap.

Spokesmen for the railroad system hastened to point out Monday that its safety record for the entire year is actually much better than in previous years.

The line, which carries the vast majority of the nation's rail passengers, has had 26 derailments this year, compared to 28 in 1975, 38 in 1974, and 34 in 1973.

It has not had a fatality since 1973, the spokesmen said. They maintained that Amtrak is much safer than automobile travel, citing the thousands of people killed on the highways each year.

Unfortunately, Amtrak has suffered its recent spate of accidents during the holiday season, when many people are traveling and there is little else to compete with a train accident for space on the front pages.

The latest wreck, in Downingtown, Pa. over the weekend, was widely publicized. But its toll was only about 34 minor injuries, compared to the hundreds of deaths on the highways over the same weekend, Amtrak's spokesman said.

The spokesman said there were two major causes of rail accidents: bad tracks and negligent auto drivers. The bad tracks cause derailments, and the auto drivers cause problems where roads intersect rail lines.

Amtrak has funded roadbed improvements in Michigan, Illinois and Texas and will soon start a major project between Washington and Houston under a $1.6 billion rail improvement program. It also urged states to replace level crossings with underpasses.

At the same time, less encouraging safety statistics are being turned in by the freight lines. The Federal Railroad Administration said that in the first six months of this year, there were 5,350 accidents of various sorts on all rail lines, nearly all of them involving freight carriers. That was up from 3,580 in the first six months of 1975.

Reenlistment Kicks Off State 'Go Guard' Effort

As a prelude to the intensified recruiting campaign, "Operation Go Guard" scheduled for formal kickoff on January 1, almost 100 members of the Ohio National Guard have already reenlisted or extended their enlistment in the Buckeye Guard.

The enlistments and extensions total over 275 years in future service to the Guard.

Operation "Go Guard" is an intensified recruiting effort which will temporarily alter weekend training assemblies.

For at least a two-month period Guardsmen will be manning local armories six days a week, from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays, and from 7:30 a.m. unitl noon on Saturdays.

According to Colonel Cyril Sedlacko, Recruiting and Retention Manager for the Ohio Guard, units will be divided into essentially six teams which will enable the local units to literally have door to door recruiters, medical testing and information personnel on hand on a daily basis rather than just on weekends once a month.

Colonel Sedlacko added, "Everyone in the Ohio Guard will be a recruiter or prospector during this time."

The Ohio National Guard had been relying on 31-full time recruiters to bolster its strength. "Now we're asking all of our members to get reinvolved with their local communities on an individual basis," he said.

Through "Operation Go-Guard", the Ohio National Guard hopes to contact 100,000 new prospects by June 1, and to recruit 4,000 of those contacted.

This is the first time in the history of the Buckeye Guard that such a recruiting effort has been attempted.

However, many other states have had great success employing similar programs in increasing their National Guard strength.

Currently, the Ohio Army National Guard is short 1,878 persons from its authorized strength of 15,297.

Riding Equipment Taken From Barns

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies are investigating separate thefts of horse riding equipment.

A harness set valued at $200 was taken from Barn 3 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds between 10 a.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. Monday.

Owner of the equipment is Arthur Mace, 18100 Commercial Point Road, Commercial Point.

Thieves took a brown leather bridle valued at $15 from a barn at 12809 Commercial Point Road, Commercial Point, Monday from 12:10 a.m. to 7:30 a.m.

The bridle is owned by Suzane Jones.

The thief apparently allowed a horse to escape from its stall and tossed other riding equipment outside the barn.

Snow Brings Warnings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Travel advisories, posted because of snowshowers, continued today over a portion of northeast Ohio and the mountains of western Pennsylvania, western Maryland and northwestern Virginia.

Ice-covered roads and bridges were a hazard to drivers. A travel advisory also remained in upper Michigan especially along the shore of Lake Superior, as snow flurries continued.

Snow flurries also continued over the Great Lakes and through the middle Appalachians. And, snow flurries remained scattered through the middle Missouri Valley during the early morning hours. There were scattered patches of fog along the Pacific Coast with occasional light rain in the northern portion.

Skies were clear in other areas.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 22 below zero at Warroad, Minn. to 61 at Brownsville, Tex.

"The Ohio State Highway Patrol will be at full strength throughout the holiday periods and Turnpike maintenance forces will be on the job as necessary to keep the road clear and safe," he continued.

"As a service to all travellers and to promote safety on the Ohio Turnpike, the Howard Johnson Company and Gladieux Food Service, Inc., which operate the Turnpike restaurants for the Commission, will serve free coffee from 10 p.m. Friday, New Year's Eve, until 7 a.m. Saturday, New Year's Day, at all 16 restaurants at the service plazas. It is hoped by the Commission that this favor by the operators will induce a rest stop by those travellers who need to offset any drowsiness caused by late hours," Johnson concluded.

Amtrak Says Derailments Bum Rap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak, with six well-publicized derailments since mid-November, thinks it's been getting a bum rap.

Spokesmen for the railroad system hastened to point out Monday that its safety record for the entire year is actually much better than in previous years.

The line, which carries the vast majority of the nation's rail passengers, has had 26 derailments this year, compared to 28 in 1975, 38 in 1974, and 34 in 1973.

It has not had a fatality since 1973, the spokesmen said. They maintained that Amtrak is much safer than automobile travel, citing the thousands of people killed on the highways each year.

Unfortunately, Amtrak has suffered its recent spate of accidents during the holiday season, when many people are traveling and there is little else to compete with a train accident for space on the front pages.

The latest wreck, in Downingtown, Pa. over the weekend, was widely publicized. But its toll was only about 34 minor injuries, compared to the hundreds of deaths on the highways over the same weekend, Amtrak's spokesman said.

The spokesman said there were two major causes of rail accidents: bad tracks and negligent auto drivers. The bad tracks cause derailments, and the auto drivers cause problems where roads intersect rail lines.

Amtrak has funded roadbed improvements in Michigan, Illinois and Texas and will soon start a major project between Washington and Houston under a $1.6 billion rail improvement program. It also urged states to replace level crossings with underpasses.

At the same time, less encouraging safety statistics are being turned in by the freight lines. The Federal Railroad Administration said that in the first six months of this year, there were 5,350 accidents of various sorts on all rail lines, nearly all of them involving freight carriers. That was up from 3,580 in the first six months of 1975.

Reenlistment Kicks Off State 'Go Guard' Effort

As a prelude to the intensified recruiting campaign, "Operation Go Guard" scheduled for formal kickoff on January 1, almost 100 members of the Ohio National Guard have already reenlisted or extended their enlistment in the Buckeye Guard.

The enlistments and extensions total over 275 years in future service to the Guard.

Operation "Go Guard" is an intensified recruiting effort which will temporarily alter weekend training assemblies.

For at least a two-month period Guardsmen will be manning local armories six days a week, from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays, and from 7:30 a.m. unitl noon on Saturdays.

According to Colonel Cyril Sedlacko, Recruiting and Retention Manager for the Ohio Guard, units will be divided into essentially six teams which will enable the local units to literally have door to door recruiters, medical testing and information personnel on hand on a daily basis rather than just on weekends once a month.

Colonel Sedlacko added, "Everyone in the Ohio Guard will be a recruiter or prospector during this time."

The Ohio National Guard had been relying on 31-full time recruiters to bolster its strength. "Now we're asking all of our members to get reinvolved with their local communities on an individual basis," he said.

Through "Operation Go-Guard", the Ohio National Guard hopes to contact 100,000 new prospects by June 1, and to recruit 4,000 of those contacted.

This is the first time in the history of the Buckeye Guard that such a recruiting effort has been attempted.

However, many other states have had great success employing similar programs in increasing their National Guard strength.

Currently, the Ohio Army National Guard is short 1,878 persons from its authorized strength of 15,297.

Ashville EFSL Plans Opening

Equitable Federal Savings and Loan Association is planning a Grand Opening celebration for its new Ashville Office starting Wednesday and running through January 31, according to Michelle Little, Ashville Branch Manager.

The month-long festivities include registration without obligation for over $1,000 worth of door prizes. The prizes include a microwave oven, and a portable dishwasher.

The Association will also offer Gifts for Saving during Grand Opening Month. Qualifing deposits will entitle the customer to one of four gifts made by Anchor Hocking Corporation.

The door prizes and Gifts for Savings are all on display at Equitable's Ashville Office, 14265 Ashville Pike.

The office is open every Monday for the convenience of area residents.

Riding Equipment Taken From Barns

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies are investigating separate thefts of horse riding equipment.

A harness set valued at $200 was taken from Barn 3 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds between 10 a.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. Monday.

Owner of the equipment is Arthur Mace, 18100 Commercial Point Road, Commercial Point.

Thieves took a brown leather bridle valued at $15 from a barn at 12809 Commercial Point Road, Commercial Point, Monday from 12:10 a.m. to 7:30 a.m.

The bridle is owned by Suzane Jones.

The thief apparently allowed a horse to escape from its stall and tossed other riding equipment outside the barn.

Snow Brings Warnings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Travel advisories, posted because of snowshowers, continued today over a portion of northeast Ohio and the mountains of western Pennsylvania, western Maryland and northwestern Virginia.

Ice-covered roads and bridges were a hazard to drivers. A travel advisory also remained in upper Michigan especially along the shore of Lake Superior, as snow flurries continued.

Snow flurries also continued over the Great Lakes and through the middle Applachians. And, snow flurries remained scattered through the middle Missouri Valley during the early morning hours. There were scattered patches of fog along the Pacific Coast with occasional light rain in the northern portion.

Skies were clear in other areas.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 22 below zero at Warroad, Minn. to 61 at Brownsville, Tex.

"MR. FIX-IT"

Ed Frericks, former owner and manager of the Circleville Lumber Co., has announced the formation of a new local business called "Mr. Fix-It".

Mr. Frericks feels there has been a long standing need wherein a homeowner or commercial business can receive prompt efficient attention for small repair and remodeling jobs that the larger contractor is not prone to service.

Mr. Frericks has been fortunate to acquire the services of several tradesmen skilled in the fields of electrical repair, carpentry, welding, concrete and block work, painting, plumbing and window glazing.

Any jobs in the above mentioned fields will be handled promptly and efficiently. All workmanship will be guaranteed to the customers satisfaction.

This new business will commence operation January 2, 1977.
